GERMAN CRUISER DRIVEN ASHORE

REINSTATE HOSFORD IN CHURCH

By unanimous vote of the First Congregational parish, Malden, Edward H. Hosford, recently pardoned from a four-year jail term by Governor Foss, has been reinstated in fellowship in the church. Action was taken at a parish meeting last night at which Rev. H. M. French, D. D., the pastor, presided.

In a letter from Hosford from Washington, where he has been recuperating since his release, Hosford told of his wrongdoing and stated that he intended living an honorable and upright life in the future. Dr. French made a strong plea for Hosford, urging that brotherly love and fellowship be extended. The vote was unanimous.

Hosford served twenty-one months of a four-year sentence for participating in the wrecking of the Donovan Shoe Company in Everett. His arrest, trial and conviction caused a sensation in Malden, where he was superintendent of the Congregational Sunday school, a clubman, and where he enjoyed a spotless reputation.

Fatally Injured in Park Street Subway

William Fagan, a car starter, fifty-one years old, of No. 28 Aetna street, Brighton, was run down by a big Reservoir car early to day while sanding the track in the Park street subway station, and is at the Relief Hospital. He may die. The accident occurred before 8 o'clock when Fagan crossed the south-bound track, scoop in hand, to sand the slippery rails at the upper end of the "loop." It is very dark at that point, and the motorman of the on-coming car, which was rounding the loop after having discharged his passengers at the north-bound platform, did not see the man. Fagan has been employed by the Elevated twenty-five years.

Gillis Out After Rest in Hospital

Doubts as to the whereabouts of Captain Joseph Gillis of the Medford High football squad were dispelled today when Gillis returned to the parental roof at No. 9 Emerson street, Medford, after having undergone treatment in a private hospital for the past week. Members of the family were urged by his physician to give the lad absolute rest. Because of their refusal to divulge his whereabouts his classmates circulated a rumor that he had disappeared.

Predict France Soon Clear of Germans

PARIS, Nov. 10.—French military experts are now predicting that French soil will soon be clear of Germans. Some express the belief that by the first of the year fighting will be in progress in Belgium and Germany. Howeevr, the conservative element profess the opinion that these predictions are premature. The strong German lines protecting their main line of communications are still intact, and Germany is still able to raise more troops.

Walsworth of Revere Loses Court Appeal

Recognition of Roscoe Walsworth as town solicitor of Revere is refused, according to an opinion handed down today by Chief Justice Rugg of the Supreme Court.

At the same time Justice Rugg hands out a few jolts to the officials of Revere.

Walsworth recently filed a petition against Andrew A. Casassa and the other Selectmen of the town to be recognized and they refused to do it.

He claims that the bylaws of the town under which Casassa was elected solicitor had been repealed and that he instead was chosen by the town.

Chief Justice Rugg in writing his opinion said in part:

"An auditor who had heard the matter found that there had been for a considerable time 'criticism and unrest' in the town touching the performance of their duty by the board of assessors and tax collector, culminating in the latter part of June in the conviction of one assessor for a crime based on falsification of the public records."

Runaway Fells Girls in a Blind Alley

ATTLEBORO, Nov. 10.—A runaway horse, dragging the florist wagon of E. E. King, bolted into a blind alley today, just as 150 girls from back doors of jewelry factories, swarmed into the alley, on their way to lunch. The girls flattened themselves against walls, but the runaway hit several. Hannah Walsh and Ruth Cutts were knocked down and severely injured. Other girls received lesser injuries. Three men were bruisd by th wheels before the runaway brought up against a wall.

Alaska Schooner Missing 3 Weeks

NOME, Alaska, Nov. 9. — The schooner New Jersey which left Nome three weeks ago for Point Hope in the Arctic Ocean, has not been heard of, and it is feared that she has drifted out to sea and was frocen in the aArctic ice.

22 Saved as Mine Sinks the Pluton

MAASSLUIS, Holland, via London, Nov. 10.—The Norwegian steamship Pluton, bound from London for Christiania, was sunk by a mine Sunday off Yarmouth. Nineteen men of her crew and three passengers were rescued by a Dutch lugger.

PRETTIEST GIRL IS BURIED

HOULTON, Me., Nov. 10.—"The Presbyterian Church at Houlton is responsible for Mildred Sullivan's death," today declared the Rev. J. L. Hess, officiating minister at the girl's funeral.

He urged measures to protect the young folk of the town, and added: "Animals care for their young often better than do the churches and parents."

The whole town was profoundly moved at the preacher's words; and the startling developments of the last few days in the mystery of the tragic and pitiable end of the child who was called "Prettiest Girl in Aroostook," were overshadowed.

Meanwhile, with the State officials preparing to make two more arrests in the case, and with plans afoot to have Katherine Michaud tell her story in court at the preliminary hearing, the body of the girl victim of the tragedy will be laid to its final rest.

Two months ago the girl went from her home to Presque Isle, gay in anticipation of good times at the Presque Isle fair. Three days later she died. Two months her body, clad only in a thin nightgown with its pathetic girlish finery of ribbons and lace about the throat, lay hidden in a shallow grave in the heart of a nearby wood.

Sunday it was discovered—its hiding place betrayed by a straying bit of pink ribbon which had not been completely buried. Yesterday it was brought to her home, and late today, after simple, solemn services, the poor body will be laid away—forever.

One can imagine the burial will bring a measure of peace and rest at last to the troubled soul of Mildred Sullivan.

In a simple casket, wreathed about with flowers, the body lies today in the Sullivan home. The law is done with it. The autopsy was performed yesterday, and its results will shortly be reported. When it was finished R. J. Smith, the Presque Isle undertaker, prepared the casket, and the trip to Houlton and the girl's home was made.

ALL HOPED BUT FATHER.

The Sullivan home is a silent one today. George Sullivan, a stalwart farmer, is the only one of the family who has believed the girl was dead. Within two weeks after her vanishing, he convinced himself she could not be alive. But the brothers and sisters—Ralph, an older brother, and the others who are younger—have always felt Mildred might come home to them. Mrs. Cora Carpenter, the grandmother, and Mrs. George Sullivan, the mother, have likewise hoped.

Their hopes—the hopes of the mother and grandmother — were buoyed by the promises of spiritualists. Both are devout believers in the mystic science; both repeatedly appealed to mediums throughout New England; and again and again they were assured that the girl still lived and would return to them.

"She will come back; she will," the mother has cried, over and over. She has refused to despair.

Now Mildred has come back—come back to stay a little while and then depart again. And in the quiet house, in silence and in utter sorrow, the mother, the grandmother, the brothers and sisters are nerving themselves to the ordeal—are battering hope from their hearts and ushering in despair.

The funeral services will be simple—befitting the simple child they commemorate. Mildred was but a child—

Report Defeat of Russians in Prussia

BERLIN, via Amsterdam, Nov. 10.—An official report from the German general staff under date of Monday states that the Russians were repulsed on November 8 in an attempt to invate East Prussaia near Wierballen. General Von Morgen's troops inflicted heavy losses upon the Russians who were routed and driven back across the border.

Workman Killed by Fall in Subway

A carpenter at work on the Summer street subway fell sixty feet into a hole at the corner of Summer and High street at noon today and was killed. Hundreds of people gathered in the vicinity, blocking traffic until the police were obliged to force them back.

General Sherwin Stricken at Club

That General Thomas Sherwin, chairman of the Board of Directors of the New England Telephone Company, and for many years president of that company, has suffered a paralytic shock became known today. He was at the Union Club on Saturday afternoon when overcome. He was taken to his home at No. 150 Commonwealth avenue, where he is now resting comfortably. Dr. Arthur N. Broughton, his physician, says he will recover.

General Sherwin, who is now seventy-five years old, enlisted early in the Civil War and by personal bravery and ability as a leader rose rapidly. He was commanding first lieutenant, then adjutant of the Twenty-second Massachusetts Infantry by October, '61; a major by June, '62; lieutenant-colonel the following October, and was brevetted colonel of volunteers for gallantry at Peebles' Farm, Va., and was made brigadier-general of volunteers in '65 for gallantry at Gettysburg.

SEA-TERROR BURNED; 340 OF CREW PERISH; KOENIGSBERG TRAPPED

LONDON, Nov. 10.—The German cruiser Emden, which has sunk more than thirty merchantmen, chiefly English vessels, and two warships since the war began, has been destroyed by the Australian warship Sydney in the Bay of Bengal.

This information was officially given out here today by the Admiralty, through the government press bureau.

The Emden was forced ashore upon one of the Coco Islands and burned. It is announced that only about twenty of the crew escaped, out of a complement of 361.

The destruction of the Emden caused great rejoicing here and it is regarded as an important naval feat.

The Sydney, which was one of the seventy warships that were on the trail of the Emden, came upon the German cruiser early yesterday. The Emden tried to escape from the Australian warship, which was heavier than the German cruiser, but the Sydney proved too speedy.

The Sydney opened fire upon the German ship, and the latter, being unable to outdistance her rival, gave battle. After a sharp fight, during which the Emden was badly damaged by the Sydney's shells, the Emden ran ashore. The Emden had been set afire by fire shells and was burning briskly when she was beached. The Sydney fired a few more shells into the stranded German ship and then drew off.

The casualties on the Sydney were three killed and fifteen wounded.

The German cruiser Koenigsberg has been imprisoned by British ships off the coast of German East Africa, and cannot escape because of obstructions placed in the channel, it is officially announced by the government press bureau.

The following official statement was given out relative to the fate of the Koenigsberg at the same time that the destruction of the Emden was announced:

"The German cruiser Koenigsberg has been imprisoned near Mafia Island, off German East Africa, by the sinking of colliers in the navigable part of the channel. The Koenigsberg is now unable to do further harm to our shipping."

Mafia Island lies in the Indian Ocean.

German newspaper reports have said that Prince Francis Joseph of Hohenzollern, the second son of William, Prince of Hohenzollern, head of the non-reigning branch of the family, was aboard the Emden on her raid in the Indian Ocean.

SEAS CLEARED OF GERMAN SHIPS.

The Admiralty announces that with the destruction of the Emden and the bottling up of the Koenigsberg the Indian Ocean and the Pacific have been cleared of German ships except for the squadron of the South American coast.

"All the assistance possible was given to the survivors on the Emden," says the Admiralty. "The Emden had landed a force upon Coco Island to destroy the wireless station and cut the cable. While engaged in those operations the Sydney came up."

The search for the Emden had covered many thousands of miles and was participated in by British, French, Russian, Japanese and Australian warships.

The successful ship Sydney was commanded by Captain John T. Glosscop. This is the first time that a warship belonging to any British colonial possession has taken part in an engagement, and immediately news of the destruction of the Emden was received First Lord of the Admiralty Winston Churchill sent the following message to the commander of the Sydney and to the naval board of the commonwealth of Australia:

"Warmest congratulations upon the brilliant entry of the Australian navy into the war. You have rendered signal service to the allied cause and to the peaceful commerce of the allied nations by the destruction of the Emden."

HOW KOENIGSBERG WAS CAUGHT.

The press bureau announced that the whereabouts of the Koenigsberg were revealed by her attack upon the Pegasus off the east coast of Africa on September 19.

"A concentration of fast cruisers was arranged at once by the Ad-

Rumor of Disaster to North Carolina Is Unconfirmed

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Rumors wholly unconfirmed were current in a number of cities on the Atlantic Coast today that the United States cruiser North Carolina had been blown up at Beirut, Asiatic Turkey. The Treasury Department requested the Commercial Cable Company to attempt to secure some information as to the present location of the North Carolina.

The Navy Department had no advices confirmatory of the rumor that the North Carolina had been blown up. Admiral Fiske, chief of the bureau of operations, Navy Department, stated that five days ago he sent a message to the commander of the North Carolina asking for information concerning the reported landing of American marines at Beirut. No reply yet has come to this message, Admiral Fiske stated.

JAPANESE AND BRITISH NOW RULE KIAO-CHAU

Continuing their aggressive advance along the entire eastern battle line, the Russians today began a heavy attack on the outer line of the fortresses of Cracow, Petrograd dispatches state.

All the zones of contact in the eastern war theatre are now declared to be inside German territory. The Russian cavalry which invaded Posen has pierced the left flank of the Germans at the crossing of the Warthe River at Koning. These cavalry operations, with strong supports, have nullified the entire defensive preparations of the Germans inside the Polish frontier.

The Russians, it is maintained, now hold without resistance the great line of entrenchments running from Czenstochowa southward on Cracow and northward on Kaliesce.

Should Cracow pass into the hands of Russia, an immense advantage will have been won from the Czar's cause. The ancient capital of Galicia, less than twenty miles across the German border, is the key to Silesia, and its capture would open an easy path to Breslau. Its railway connections would open up a rich industrial district, in fact the very heart of Austria, to the invader. In Silesia, too, are the most valuable coal lands Germany possesses. The loss of Galicia would mean the cutting off of the principal oil supply of Germany and Austria. Far more than Warsaw, Cracow represents the spirit of the Polish race. There the Polish kings were crowned. In its cathedral are the bones of the great national heroes—Sobieski, the champion who delivered Vienna from the terror of the Turks, and Koscinsko, the latest and the most famous of those who fought for Polish liberty and independence.

It is reported that in forcing the passage of the river San the Russians have turned the German-Austrian retreat into a route. The succession of victories gained by Russia in East Prussia, West Poland and Galicia, and the rapid sweep westward of the Grand Duke Nicholas' main armies, is the greatest achievement so far by Germany's antagonists. Petrograd military critics pronounce it a miracle of warfare, comparable to the greatest operations of modern times.

TAKE THOUSANDS OF TURKS

Thousands of Turkish prisoners have been taken by the Russian army of invasion in Armenia during the past two days' fighting, it is officially announced from field headquarters in Tiflis.

The Russians have taken an important Turkish position twenty-five miles east of Erzerum, on the left bank of the Passin River. They are advancing between the Pontine mountains and the ranges lying on the southern border of the vilayet of Erzerum, having an army of more than 600,000 men, consisting of cavalry and infantry heavily supported by field artillery.

Official announcement was made in Paris today that a German attack in considerable force south of Ypres was repulsed on Monday and that the French forces made appreciable progress around Bixschoote and between Ypres and Armentiers. The British troops, it was stated, also repulsed all the attacks made by the Germans. The battle continues with undiminished force.

Official announcement is made at Berlin that the German forces have maintained a successful advance against the allies in France and Belgium.

The Germans, according to an Amsterdam dispatch, expect the French and British to land reinforcements in northern Belgium for a drive southward. The Germans are building strong barricades and earthworks westward from Sluis parallel to the coast.

BULGARIA PREPARES FOR WAR.

Athens reports that Bulgaria is preparing for war. Mines are being planted in the Gulf of Lagos, an arm of the Aegean Sea, to prevent an attack on Bulgarian shipping there.

Japanese and English troops formally took possession of the German leasehold of Kiao-Chau in China today. The troops cheered wildly, Tokio cables say, as they marched into Tsing-Tao and saw the Japanese and British flags floating over the citadel. The allies were led on their triumphal march of entry by General Yamada, General Yohoyi and Lieutenant-Colonel Barnardiston. The regimental bands played the Japanese national air and "God Save the King." The work of mounting heavy Japanese guns on the wrecked German forts will be begun at once.

French troops have invaded the German colony of Kamerun in South Africa. In the region of the Sangha river the French expeditionary forces from French Equatorial Africa, headed by General Aimerrich, have succeeded in driving the Germans from practically all the territory lost by the 1911 treaty. Belgian soldiers will operate with French in fighting the Germans in Kamerun.

AMAZING RECORD OF RUIN BY THE EMDEN

miralty," the press bureau further says.

"These ships were sent in search of the Koenigsberg along the entire coast of Africa. Finally, on October 30, the Koenigsberg was discovered by the battleship Chatham. Captain Sidney R. Drury-Lowe, hiding in shoal water about six miles up the Lawego River, opposite Mafia Island. Owing to her greater draught the Chatham could not reach the Koenigsberg, which was believed to be aground except at high tide, when she would leave her haven. The crew of the German ship was landed when the British ship was discovered and trenches were thrown up on both sides of the river.

"Finding it was impossible to take the ship with land party, Captain Drury-Lowe ordered a bombardment, but owing to dense palm groves flanking the river it was found almost impossible to get the range and the shells which did strike near the German ship did little damage, so far as could be learned. It will not be until the ship is taken that the extent of the damage is really known.

"Steps were then taken to bottle up the Koenigsberg by sinking colliers in the channel and she is now a prisoner."

AMAZING RECORD OF EMDEN.

The cruiser Emden, a little ship of 3,600 tons, with a battery of twelve 4.1-inch guns, has made an amazing record since the war began.

She has sunk a French and a Russian warship, and merchant vessels variously numbered from twenty-five to thirty. The total tonnage she is known to have sunk is 63,147 tons of merchant vessels and 3,720 tons of warships, or 66,867 tons sunk by the 3,600-ton vessel.

The Sydney, the Australian cruiser which destroyed the Emden, has an advantage of two to three knots in speed and has two six-inch guns and ten four-inch against the Emden's twelve 4.1-inch guns. The Sydney was one of seventy war vessels scouring the seas for the little German cruiser.

The Emden's career began shortly after the war began. On August 6 a Tientsin dispatch to the London Daily Mail reported that the Emden had been in action with the Russian cruiser Ackold off Wei-hai-wei, and that both ships had been sunk.

This was forcibly contradicted on September 10 when the little cruiser sank five British merchant ships and captured a sixth in the Bay of Bengal. The British Admiralty on September 20 said that the Emden "on September 10, from the China station, after having been lost sight of for six weeks, suddenly appeared in the Bay of Bengal and captured six British ships. Five of these were sunk and the sixth was sent to Calcutta with their crews." At that time the Emden was accompanied by the Markomannia of the Hamburg-American Line as a collier. The Markomannia has since been sunk by the British.

SHELLED CITY OF MADRAS.

Within the next two or three days the Emden was reported in the dispatches as having sunk the Craftsman, a sister ship of the Diplomat, then the Clan Matheson and two other ships.

On September 22 the Emden appeared off Madras and shelled the city. Two oil tanks were set afire and the telegraph office and some houses were hit, but the damage done was not great. Guns from the fortifications replied and the Emden, extinguishing her lights, disappeared. The whole engagement lasted only fifteen minutes.

On September 29 the British Admiralty announced that the Emden had sunk four British steamships and one British collier. This activity was in the neighborhood of Rangoon and the ships sunk were the Tumeric, King Lud, Riberia and Foyle and the collier Burak.

At that time it was reported that the Australian battle cruiser Australia, carrying eight 12-inch guns, had been sent to find the Emden.

The British embassy on October 29 heard that the Emden, flying the Japanese flag and disguised by the addition of a fourth smokestack, entered Penang, a British possession in the Straits Settlement, and fired torpedoes which sank the Russian cruiser Jemtchug and a French destroyer.

The Emden was a 3,600-ton cruiser, launched in 1908. She made twenty-five knots on her trial trip, and was rated as a twenty-four knot boat. Her deck armor was a maximum of two inches thick, her conning tower a maximum of 3.9 inches. She carried twelve 4.1-inch guns, four 2-inch guns, four machine guns and two submerged torpedo tubes.

The Australian cruiser which destroyed the Emden is given in the naval manuals as a protected cruiser of the Bristol type. Her cost was £450,000, or $2,250,000, whereas the Bristol cost only £282,790. Therefore the Sydney is probably a better boat than the Bristol.

Official War Reports.

RUSSIAN.

PETROGRAD, Nov. 16. — The Russian army of the Caucasus continues to operate successfully against the Turks. The Kurd cavalry has been scattered, and during the last two days thousands of prisoners have been taken. The Turks have placed a considerable body of troops, composed of regulars and armed peasantry, upon the Persian frontier.

FRENCH.

French Coat of Arms.

PARIS, Nov. 10.—The conflict continued yesterday throughout the day with the same ferocity as on the preceding day between the sea and the region of Armentieres. The shock has become even more violent as the opposing forces waged their offensive movement from one side or the other.

In general, the day was marked by the check of a German attack in considerable force directed to the south of Ypres, and by appreciable advances of the French forces around Bixschoote and between Ypres and Armentieres.

On the front the British troops likewise have thrown back all the German attacks energetically. On the greater portion of the front, from the canal of La Bassee as far as the Woevre region, our troops have consolidated. The results gained in the course of the last few days show our decided advance.

In the region of the Oivre (between Rheims and Berry-au-Bac) and in Lorraine there is nothing to report. In the Vosges new attacks by the enemy upon the heights to the south of the Pass of Ste Marc and to the southeast of Thann have all been repulsed.

GERMAN.

German Coat of Arms.

BERLIN, Nov. 10.—The enemy has been compelled to give ground at several points as a result of our strong offensive attacks. Our advance has been maintained and we have gained strong positions about Ypres and Arras.

The situation in the eastern war theatre is stationary.

WAR CRY IS RAISED BY CARRANZA

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Official Washington is facing a grave situation in Mexico today, following Consul Silliman's announcement that Carranza has called on the Mexicans to arm themselves against the Americans in Vera Cruz.

Consul Silliman has obtained definite information that the Mexican Herald, the principal newspaper published in the English language in Mexico City, printed the manifesto calling upon Mexicans to drive the Americans from Vera Cruz upon the order of Carranza's Minister of Communications.

American excuses for the continued occupation of Vera Cruz have gone beyond the point where they can be accepted in good faith, it says, adding that Mexicans must drive the invaders out of the country.

At Mexico City it is reported the port of Acapulco on the Pacific has been occupied by American marines. The occupation is said to have followed a request of the inhabitants, who were suffering great privations owing to the revolution.

According to private telegrams received in Vera Cruz, the National Bank of Mexico City has been sacked by a mob led by Constitutionalist soldiers.

General Gutierrez, selected by the convention at Aguascalientes, is scheduled tonight to be sworn as provisional President of Mexico.

Carranza has dissolved the convention, ordering the generals to return to their commands. This action is said to mean a renewal of the war between him and Villa.

MORE JURORS SELECTED FOR SIEGEL TRIAL

GENESEO, N. Y., Nov. 10.—Within an hour after Justice William W. Clark convened court today for the resumption of the trial of Henry Siegel, the New York merchant and banker, two more jurors were selected, making six in the box, and it was predicted that the panel would be complete before night.

The prosecution gained another point today when Justice Clark practically decided that the jurors should be locked up at the Hotel Stanley. This is unusual in a criminal case based on a less serious charge than murder, and the attorneys for the prosecution were elated at the court's decision.

Threats by a woman, said to be a creditor of one of the Siegel stores, against Siegel, caused the sheriff to place extra guards about the courtroom today to prevent a repetition of the scene which created excitement at the close of the first session of the trial.

The woman, just after court adjourned, rushed up to Siegel and made a move as if to strike him, at the same time calling him a "wretch" and predicting dire things for him. Sheriffs escorted the woman from the courtroom.

The interest which is bein taken in the trial by persons living in Geneseo and the surrounding country was shown by the number of spectators who waited for the doors to open for today's session. Many women were in court.

Many of the talesmen examined were farmers and most of them disclaimed knowledge of the Siegel case.

The examination of the talesmen for the prosecution was carried out by Frank B. Cook, formerly district attorney for Livingstone county, while Arthur C. Train, an assistant on Mr. Whitman's staff, asked occasional questions.

For the defence, Charles D. Newton of Geneseo, recently elected State Senator, and John F. Connor of Mount Morris, formerly district attorney of Livingstone county, questioned the talesmen. The local counsel for the defence discussed the challenges in the main with Ross Owen, one of John B. Stanchfield's associates. Occasionally Mr. Stanchfield, as counsel for Siegel, was referred to.

Sullivan Condemns Bankruptcy Law

E. Mark Sullivan, former Assistant United States District Attorney, in an address before the Pilgrim Publicity Association, characterized the present bankruptcy laws as wasteful and extravagant. "By the time the lawyers have got theirs," said he "there is mighty little left for the creditors. There is the trustee, with a fee; the receiver or receivers, with fees; the referee, with a fee, and each one of these has to have an attorney, and then, of course, there are more fees. When the lawyers have finished 'whacking up' usually there is not much left."

Dean Williams to Lecture to Women

"Better Care of Women and Children" is the subject of a lecture to be given by Dr. J. Whitridge Williams, dean of the Johns Hopkins Medical School, at the headquarters of the Massachusetts Anti-Suffrage Association, No. 685 Boylston street, Saturday, November 14, at 3 p. m.

OPTIMISTICS.

On Monday next the twelve federal reserve banks will be open for business, and about $460,000,000 in reserve money will be set free to help general trade.

It is stated that Germany wants to buy 100,000 automobile tires in this country.

Print cloth sales in Fall River for a week were 260,000 pieces, against 80,000 last year, while prices were a shade higher.

The mills of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation have been started on full time, and foreign orders promise a boom for the Winter.

The output of Old Dominion for ten months this year was 28,814,000 pounds of copper, compared with 26,030,000 for the corresponding period last year.

Plants in all sections of Pennsylvania are becoming more active. They are going on a full-time basis or resuming after being shut down.

Increased operations in the Pittsburgh district will give employment to 20,000 men.

COURT FINES WOMAN A CENT; PAYS HER FINE

LOWELL, Nov. 10.—Judge Thomas Enwright, in District Court here today, found Mrs. Blanche Reese guilty of assault and battery on a young girl, fined her one cent, then said:

"Here is the cent to pay your fine. I do not blame you for what you did. You should have administered a more severe chastisement."

Mrs. Reese lives at No. 41 Merrimac street. She told the court a pitiful story of how she strove to have her daughter lead a good life, and how fifteen-year-old Regina Defoe, who she was accused of assaulting, persuaded her daughter Dorothy to go with her and two young men to Nashua in an automobile.

Mrs. Reese said she missed her daughter, went to the Defoe girl's house to make inquiries, and at what she heard lost her temper and struck the girl.

Find Clothing of Women as Men Drain Reservoir

NORTON, Nov. 10.—Employes of the Chartley Ice Company, draining Norton Reservoir today, found a bundle of women's clothing, a complete outfit, tied securely, weighted with a large stone and sunk in fifteen feet of water twenty yards from shore. The police suspect foul play.

The garments include a new two-piece brown suit, union suit, hat, white shirt-waist, shoes, stockings and other garments.

'Habitual Criminal' Goes Back to Prison

George Williams, fifty, was sentenced to five to eight years in State prison today by Judge Fox in East Cambridge Court, where he was found guilty of breaking and entering the home of George Ladd, an Ashland farmer. Since the age of twenty, Williams has spent practically all his time in different institutions.

Lawrence Pleads for 'Common People'

"We are all fools unless we get among the common people and understand their language, know them and gain their confidence," declares Bishop Lawrence in the current issue of "The Churchman." He believes the churches are not doing enough for the foreign speaking peoples of Boston.

LADIES! LOOK YOUNG DARKEN GRAY HAIR

Use the Old-time Sage Tea and Sulphur and Nobody will Know.

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantages of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray and looks dry, wispy and scraggly, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundred-fold.

Don't stay gray! Look young! Either prepare the tonic at home or get from any drug store a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully and removes dandruff, stops scalp itching and falling hair; besides, no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, its natural color is restored and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous, and you appear years younger.—ADVERTISEMENT.

Quincy Primaries on Today; Tours in Autos End Contest

The municipal primaries at Quincy are being held today. All aspirants for Mayoralty nominations made their final appeals to the voters in a whirlwind automobile tour of the city.

Chester I. Campbell and Henry F. Tilden, candidates for the Republican nomination for Mayor, were each accompanied by several automobiles and a large quantity of red fire.

Campbell spoke in every ward in the city. Scottish pipers accompanied him. At each rally, musical selections were given by a chorus from the Samoset Club.

Correct Way to Treat Skin Diseases
Both air and water seem to have a bad effect upon skin diseases like Eczema, of which there are many forms. Keeping out the water and air is the first thing to do. By using Cadum, the well-known remedy for skin diseases, air and water are excluded, because Cadum contains petrolatum and white wax, and these form a tight covering over the sore places upon the skin. Cadum also contains oil of cade, which has been successfully used many years by the medical profession in the treatment of Eczema and other skin troubles. If your skin is inflamed, irritated or sore, get a 10c box of Cadum of your druggist and try it. The 25c size box contains nearly four times as much as the 10c size and is cheaper to buy.

FREE DR. SMITH, TWICE ON TRIAL AS WIFE SLAYER

Dr. Arthur B. Smith, who married Miss Mabel Merchant of Newton soon after his first wife's death in Springfield, Ohio, has been freed after being twice on trial, accused of slaying his first wife.

The final chapter in the most sensational criminal case in the history of the Springfield, Ohio, court was written when an entry was filed quashing the indictments which charged Dr. Smith with the murder of his first wife Mrs. Florence Cavilear Smith, on March 4, 1912.

Smith was arrested in Boston in October of the same year, following his marriage to Miss Merchant, who was a nurse in a hospital at the time.

The first Mrs. Smith died as the result of digitalis and aconite poisoning. The causes of death were considered natural until certain actions of Dr. Smith caught the attention of the authorities and a watch was set on him. He came East and shortly after was married to Miss Merchant, whom he had previously known. He maintained his innocence throughout, and insisted that the prosecution was instigated by relatives of his first wife, because of his second marriage so soon after Mrs. Smith's death.

The 73-year-old mother of the defendant was of material advantage to his case, coming to his assistance with both wealth to engage brilliant counsel and with testimony that made a marked impression on the juries. After the second trial Dr. Smith was released on a bond of $10,000. He is now employed in a drug store in Cleveland.

HEARST BRINGS SUIT AGAINST ART DEALERS

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—William Randolph Hearst has filed a suit in New York County which charges Charles J. Duveen and Herbert W. Dawson, art dealers, doing business as "Charles of London," with selling and delivering as an original Elizabethan carved stone chimney piece, a product which the customs authorities declared to be a mere copy.

The suit is of unusual interest to collectors of antique works of art, as it alleges this widely known firm imposed upon a wealthy resident of Minneapolis by delivering a chimney piece of exact design, which was also sold as an original.

Through his attorney, Clarence J. Shearn, Mr. Hearst sets forth the facts in two causes of action, and asserts that the alleged antique chimney piece delivered to him is of value at least $3,000 less than the agreed purchase price, which was $4,000.

The affidavits filed with the papers assert that the art dealers exhibited to Mr. Hearst the Elizabethan chimney piece at Nos 27-29 Brook street, London, in July, 1912. In order to make the sale it was represented that the valuable antique had been originally designed and built during the reign of Queen Elizabeth. On the strength of these representations the sale was consummated.

Subsequently, in February, 1913, what purported to be the original chimney piece was delivered in New York, but returned to the dealers as soon as it was discovered to be a copy. It was sent back to Mr. Hearst again, since which time it has been stored in the vaults of a safe deposit company.

1872 Vets Put Out Blaze at Banquet

While a flashlight picture was being made at the Quincy House of the Box 52 and the Veterans of 1872 Associations' celebration of the great Boston fire, which wiped out most of the city's business section forty-two years ago, one of the smoke catchers caught fire. Some of the veterans jumped from their seats at the banquet table, pulled the bag from its hangings. Others dashed water on the flames, which had set fire to the draperies.

The services will be held in the Sullivan home, where Mildred passed the last years of her life. It was here also that she met Ambrose Bridge, who was a boarder at the home.

SIMPLE SERVICES.

The Rev. J. L. Hess, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, will conduct the services. He will say the words to which those who loved her must cling for comfort in the days to come.

Only a few will attend the services. All Houlton—all Aroostook County, perhaps, would like to come. But the house is small, and Mrs. Sullivan is anxious—for the last time—to keep Mildred to herself. Only Mildred's friends will be there: a few schoolgirls who knew and loved her; a few of the kindly neighbors; a relative or two from the surrounding farms.

And afterward a little procession will move down the road to the Evergreen Cemetery, and there, in a deeper grave than that shallow trench in the woods, the body of Mildred Sullivan will be laid away.

When the clods fall upon the coffin, all that can be done for the dead girl will have been done, and thereafter the law will turn with so much the more energy to the task of unravelling the mystery that still clouds her death, to the task of punishing any that deserve punishment.

In this work, Katherine Michaud, a Canadian girl, a nurse of some skill, will be their chief help. It was Katherine Michaud, whose confession—secured after long weeks of effort—resulted in the discovery of the girl's body, in the swift arrest of Dr. Lionel Dudley, Alice Pellitier and Perley Pellitier, her brother.

Today, Katherine Michaud is expected to be arrested. The charge against her—like that against Alice and Perley Pellitier, will be that she was an accessory to the murder. She will undoubtedly be indicted, but the charge against her, in view of the fact that she has turned State's evidence, will not be pressed.

MAY BE GIVEN FREEDOM.

In fact, it is probable that she will eventually be released when the trial of the others is complete.

But first, she will have told her story to the courts. It is now planned to have her take the stand tomorrow, when the others are arraigned on the charges brought against them. If they waive examination in the lower courts, and submit without protest to being bound over to the Grand Jury, she will not be called upon to testify. But if there is any necessity of presenting evidence, she will be the most important witness against the three—Dr. Dudley and the Pellitiers.

Another arrest is also expected today or tomorrow—the arrest of Ambrose Bridge, the man responsible for the circumstances that led to Mildred Sullivan's death. Bridge has been several times questioned by the police, and has admitted without restraint his relations with the dead girl.

His arrest will be made on a warrant, on a charge not yet decided. He was brought to Houlton yesterday in the custody of a deputy sheriff, but was not arrested. This was on the same train that brought the body of Mildred Sullivan from Presque Isle to her home. He got on the train at Harvey siding, in the custody, or in the company at least, of Deputy Sheriff Guion.

The man was very pale, and obviously nervous. He and Deputy Sheriff Guion went into the smoker and remained there during the voyage.

The body of Mildred Sullivan, meanwhile, was in the forward car, and on the train, escorting the body, were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Melville, the girl's uncle and aunt, George Sullivan, her father, and Ralph Sullivan, her brother, a fine, up-standing young man, a member of the Maine militia.

HOSTILE GLANCES.

The party saw Bridge, and the glances given him were hostile, but no word was said. Bridge avoided the eyes of the relatives of the dead girl. Mr. and Mrs. Melville are the relatives at whose home Mildred expected to stay, when, on Bridge's invitation, she left Houlton for Presque Isle early in September.

At the Houlton Station, Bridge was asked: "Do you expect to be held under arrest?"

"Not longer than tomorrow," he replied.

"Were you surprised that the body was found?"

"I was glad," he said. "I was glad, for her parents' sake. I think Kate Michaud is a girl of principle—more principle than the rest. It was square of her to tell where the body was.

"The brutal way they buried her makes me mad," he continued. "They didn't even wrap a sheet around her. They might at least have done that—but they just jammed her down into that hole and scraped the dirt and leaves over her. It makes me sore."

"Are you ready to tell your story?"

"I'm ready to tell everything I know—all the truth. I'm innocent and I have nothing to hide."

Then Fred Melville came up and spoke to Bridge and he and Bridge turned aside and spoke together for a moment. When he returned he said: "Bridge feels bad. I'm sorry for him. I [illegible]."

Sheriff Bryson was asked whether Bridge was under arrest.

"No," he said. "He's not under arrest. We're just holding him a day or two. A warrant will probably be made out and he will be arrested shortly. It's not neccessary so far. He's perfectly willing to come with us without being arrested."

He added:

"We are going to arrest Kate Michaud at once. She may be brought from Wallagrass today. She will surely be here for the arraignment of the others—probably on Wednesday."

BRIDGE TALKS FREELY.

Bridge was taken to the county jail and there questioned at great length as to all he knew of the case. He talked freely, told all he knew. He is expected to be a valuable witness for the State when the case comes up for hearing.

Another witness, it was stated today, will be a Cambridge girl, Ruth Deveney of No. 42 Magazine street. Miss Deveney met Miss Alice Pellitier and Dr. Dudley when they were in Boston before their arrest there, and they dropped a word or two which Miss Deveney overheard and which the State is anxious for her to repeat to the courts here.

The girl has told her story to Detective Sergeant Irwin in Boston, and is ready to come to Maine to repeat it when needed.

Meanwhile, Dr. Dudley and Alice and Perley Pellitier are in the jail here, in cells near each other. Dr. Dudley is accused of being the principal in the death of Mildred Sullivan, and the State calls that death murder. The other two are charged with being accessories.

Alice Pellitier is strikingly confident. To a questioner who visited her in the jail, she remarked:

"It will soon be over. I'm not worried. In another month I'll be home."

Her cheerful confidence was especially marked when she was boarding the train at Presque Isle, to be brought to Houlton in custody. After the train pulled out, Fred Pellitier, her father, remarked:

"I never saw Alice in better spirits. You'd think she'd be feeling pretty blue, but I never saw her look happier."

After the prisoners and the body of Mildred Sullivan had been brought to Houlton a remarkable story came out in Presque Isle—the story of a dream.

DREAMED OF GRAVE IN WOODS.

Ruby Riley is a cousin of Mildred Sullivan, and she lived with her stepfather, Fred Melville. One morning she came to Mr. Melville and said: "Dad, I dreamed I saw Millie last night. She came to me and she said, 'Ruby, I am so cold. I can't get warm. I have only a nightgown on.' It seemed to be out in the woods."

Miss Riley thought she recognized the woods as a patch near her home, and Mr. Melville took the dream seriously enough so that he led a small searching party, which scoured the neighborhood the girl described. But they found nothing.

The work of the coroner's jury at the inquest on the girl's body was quickly done. Dr. Boone, the medical examiner, told of the causes of death, and George Sullivan, the girl's father, made his identification. There was no testimony offered as to responsibility for the death, and the jury's verdict was only that the girl died probably as the result of illegal medical practice. The autopsy had previously been performed and the stomach sent to Bowdoin College for an examination for drugs or poison.

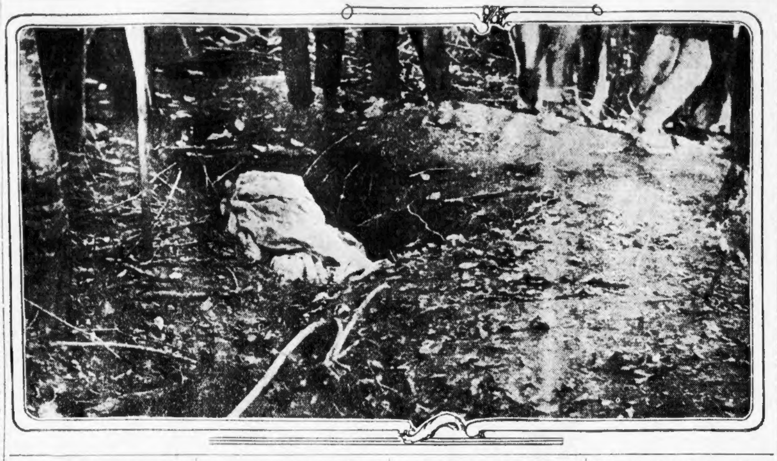
The jurymen were George P. Larrabee, Harry B. Holmes, Harry R. Pipies, Wilfred Thompson, C. J. Hanson and M. B. Maynard. All of them knew Mildred Sullivan, at least by her wide repute as the "prettiest girl in Aroostook." Larrabee was foreman. After their verdict they took the same train that brought the girl's body to Houlton.

The Grand Jury proceedings next week will probably see the indictment of those arrested already in connection with the case. They are expected to be held, upon arraignment, for the Grand Jury's action.

The autopsy was performed by Coroner Floyd Smith, Medical Examiner Boone, and Dr. F. H. Jackson of Houlton. Dr. Kilburn of Presque Isle, and Dr. H. L. Putnam of Houlton assisted. Coroner Floyd Smith directed the inquest.

R. W. Shaw, Dr. Dudley's counsel, is in the woods on a hunting trip. He will shortly return and assume charge of the case. Meanwhile his son is looking after the interests of the defendants.

The body of Mildred Sullivan as it appeared in the freshly opened grave in the lonely woods between Presque Isle and Houlton, where it was hurriedly buried at midnight. The girl was committed to earth clad only in the nightdress in which she died.



FIND FOOT AND MOUTH DISEASE IN CHICOPEE

Dr. H. F. Brown, inspector for the Bureau of Animal Industry of the Federal Department of Agriculture, who has been examining cattle in the Chicopee district, today diagnosed two cases of cattle sickness as foot and mouth disease.

Dispatches from Washington today put Kentucky on the quarantine list. Three cases of the epidemic have developed in a herd of eight cattle in Bullit County, Kentucky, and immediate plans were made by the federal authorities to quarantine the State.

Chicago dispatches today related the vigorous, almost frantic efforts to prevent the use of hog cholera serum, following the sensational discovery that the foot and mouth disease had crept into the factories of the two big companies which manufacture the serum at the Union stockyards. This serum is sent all over the country, especially in the Middle West, to farmers who have detected hog cholera among their stock.

The moment government inspectors discovered that the foot and mouth disease had worked into the serum factories the first object was to recall latest shipments of serum, or to stop its use if it could not be recalled. Fifty government inspectors were hustled through the Middle West to intercept serum at points within quick reach. nTelegraph stop-orders were dispatched to farther points where farmers or veterinarians had ordered the serum.

Finlev Girls Give Up Society for Hens

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—The Misses Finley, daughters of the late president of the Southern Railway have become tired of the social round here and have started a chicken farm in Warrenton, Va. Both declare they find poultry raising much more satisfactory and fascinating than social life.

A. F. L. TAKES UP RIGHTS OF TRADE UNIONS

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 10. — The real work in the thirty-fourth annual convention of the American Federation of Labor began today. When today's session opened at 9 o'clock, President Gompers started to appoint committees who will clear the field for the discussions of the internal affairs and external aims of the organization that are to shape the course of the labor movement in the United States for the next twelve months.

The fight on the question of jurisdiction of trade over trade will commence today, according to the plan outlined by President Gompers. The jurisdiction dispute occurs when one trade claims to assume leadership in a job over another with which it is affiliated or associated. One of the most important of these disputes is between the carpenters and the sheet metal workers as to the jurisdiction over the manufacture and erection of metal trimmings for buildings. This matter was the first business taken up today by three delegates of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters, three delegates of the sheet metal workers and three named by President Gompers.

ORGANIZER OF FIRST WOMEN'S CLUB DIES AT 94

Mrs. Caroline M. Severance, "the mother of women's clubs," who organized the first women's club in 1868 when she was living in Roxbury, died today at her western home, "El Nino," Los Angeles.

Mrs. Severance was ninety-four years old. She was born in Canandaigua, N. Y., came to Boston in 1855 and lived here twenty years. She was an ardent suffragist and cast her first ballot in Los Angeles in 1911, when she voted for Roosevelt for President.

In Boston she was an intimate friend of Julia Ward Howe, Ralph Waldo Emerson, James Freeman Clarke, Edward Everett Hale, John Greenleaf Whittier, Francis Willard and other leaders in nation-wide thought.

Mrs. Severance founded the New England Women's Club in Boston in 1868 and was its first president. This club was formed a few weeks before the Sorosis Club of New York, which is sometimes regarded as the first women's club of this country. She was succeeded as president by Julia Ward Howe. When Mrs. Severance went to California she was affectionately styled the "Julia Ward Howe of the West."

U. S. Naval Program to Stand Unchanged

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10. — That there will be no increase in the naval appropriations for the coming year President Wilson stated today. None has been recommended by the Secretary of the Navy, he told his callers. The State Department appropriation will be necessarily larger, owing to the added expenses caused by the war, but there has been no change in the naval program as outlined by administration officials more than a year ago.

Six Billion Lost by France in War

PARIS, Nov. 10.—Six billion dollars represents the French losses in real estate, houses, furniture, workshops, mines and railroads, public roads and monuments since the beginning of the war. This estimate, the Temps says, was made by a prominent statistician.

FAMOUS FOR HER HAIR

Actress Tells How to Obtain It.

Madame Rose, the well-known actress, who played on one of the leading vaudeville circuits the past winter and who is especially noted for her long, beautiful hair, in a recent interview in Chicago made the following statement: "Any lady or gentleman can promote the growth of their hair and make it soft and glossy with this simple recipe which they can mix at home. To a half-pint of water add 1 oz. of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and ¼ oz. of glycerine. Apply to the scalp two or three times a week with the finger tips. This is not only the finest hair grower I have ever known, but it prevents the hair from falling out, removes dandruff and scalp humors, darkens streaked, faded gray hair and makes it soft and glossy. The ingredients can be purchased at any drug store at very little cost." —ADVERTISEMENT.

Dr. Osler on Tuberculosis

Sir William Osler, one of the foremost of living medical men, formerly of Johns Hopkins, Baltimore, and now Regius Professor of Medicine at Oxford, says in his "Practice of Medicine" (1892), on page 249:

"The healing of pulmonary tuberculosis is shown clinically by the recovery of patients in whose sputa elastic tissue and bacilli have been found. * * * In the granulation products and associated pneumonia a scar tissue is formed, while the smaller caseous areas become impregnated with lime salts. To such conditions alone should the term healing be applied."

Many eminent medical authorities have testified to the efficacy of lime salts in the treatment of tuberculosis, and the success of Eckman's Alterative in this and allied throat and bronchial affections may be due partly to the fact that it contains a lime salt so combined with other valuable ingredients as to be easily assimilated.

Widespread use of this remedy in numerous cases of tuberculosis—many of which appear to have yielded completely to it—justifies our belief that it is worth a trial, unless some other treatment already is succeeding. It contains no opiates, narcotics or habit-forming drugs. We make no promises concerning it any more than reputable physicians give promises with their prescriptions, but we know of many cases in which IT HAS HELPED.

Your druggist has it or can get it, or you can send direct.

WHAT DYSPEPTICS SHOULD EAT

A PHYSICIAN'S ADVICE.

"Indigestion and practically all forms of stomach trouble are, nine times out of ten, due to acidity; therefore stomach sufferers should, whenever possible, avoid eating food that is acid in its nature, or which by chemical action in the stomach develops acidity. Unfortunately, such a rule eliminates most foods which are pleasant to the taste as well as those which are rich in blood, flesh and nerve building properties. This is the reason why dyspeptics and stomach sufferers are usually so thin, emaciated and lacking in that vital energy which can only come from a well fed body. For the benefit of those sufferers who have been obliged to exclude from their diet all starchy, sweet or fatty food, and are trying to keep up a miserable existence on gluten products, I would suggest that you should try a meal of any food or foods which you may like, in moderate amount, taking immediately afterwards a teaspoonful of bisurated magnesia in a little hot or cold water. This will neutralize any acid which may be present, or which may be formed, and instead of the usual feeling of uneasiness and fullness you will find that your food agrees with you perfectly. Bisurated magnesia is doubtless the best food corrective and antacid known. It has no direct action on the stomach; but by neutralizing the acidity of the food contents, and thus removing source of the acid irritation which inflames the delicate stomach lining, it does more than could possibly be done by any drug or medicine. As a physician, I believe in the use of medicine whenever necessary, but I must admit that I cannot see the sense of dosing an inflamed and irritated stomach with drugs instead of getting rid of the acid—the cause of all the trouble. Get a little bisurated magnesia from your druggist, eat what you want at your next meal, take some of the bisurated magnesia as directed above, and see if I'm not right." ADVERTISEMENT.

Remarkable Features in Case of Mildred Sullivan

Her body was buried at midnight, after a wild dash in an automobile without lights.

Two girls and a man scraped out the shallow grave with sticks.

The man responsible for Miss Sullivan's condition has not been arrested.

Her body lay undiscovered for more than two months.

A confession secured by a priest finally resulted in the body's discovery.

Dr. Lionel E. Dudley, the alleged principal in the case, has faced four charges as a result of the mystery. The first charges were statutory, then he was held as a fugitive from justice, then for malpractice, and now for murder.

The girl's body was finally identified by a dentist who had worked on her teeth.

Mildren Sullivan's mother and grandmother appealed to spiritualistic mediums for help in finding the girl, and were repeatedly assured by them that she was alive.

GIRLS! LOTS OF BEAUTIFUL HAIR, NO DANDRUFF----25 CENT DANDERINE

Hair coming out? If dry, thin, faded, bring back its color and lustre.

Within ten minutes after an application of Danderine you cannot find a single trace of dandruff or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—growing all over the scalp.

A little Danderine immediately doubles the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. The effect is amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable lustre, softness and luxuriance.

Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and prove that your hair is as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment—that's all—you surely can have beautiful hair and lots of it if you will just try a little Danderine.

Constance Williams Pictures Midnight Burial of Prettiest Girl

By CONSTANCE WILLIAMS.

If Robert Louis Stevenson or Edgar Allan Poe were a newspaper writer today, he would revel in that grimmest of stories, the story of the midnight burial of Mildred Sullivan. It is not a story that can be told in the matter-of-fact words of every day. By flashes and hints it has come to light, gradually showing the stark outlines of its horror, through the clouding mystery and silence that for two months kept it secret. Until today the story is clear for all to see—the most dramatic, the most grewsome, the most appalling story of real life that has come to light for years.

What went before does not matter. Whether Mildred Sullivan died from some cause in nature, from some mistake in medical treatment, or under the deliberate knife of a murderer does not matter. The State says it was murder. But this much is sure—that sometime between dusk and 11 o'clock in the evening of September 4, Mildred Sullivan died.

DIED THAT EVENING.

Three days before she had come happily to Presque Isle, had met Katherine Michaud and become friends with her, and had gone with her to a certain home, and on Friday morning, ill and weak, she was half-led, half-carried to an omnibus and taken to the home of Alice Pellitier. There, that evening, she died.

Upon the half-truths, the hints and the meagre details that have come to light, the imagination builds the story of the midnight burial that followed. It is a story that cannot be told as sober fact—it can be told only as a dream of a Poe, the fictional creation of a Stevenson. Read the story so—if you will.

They tugged the limp body from the bed into an entryway. The girl was dead; and the first matter was to effect her disappearance from the ken of man. The body must be hidden, the clothing must be destroyed. All trace of Mildred Sullivan must disappear before dawn.

WRAPPED IN FUR ROBE.

The two girls, with half-caught breaths of horror, faces white in the dim lamplight, lips caught between their teeth to stifle their trembling cries, bundled the body in a great fur robe, and shoved it into the entryway, under a table. Hidden in the robe, it was not conspicuous.

The girl had died in bed and still wore her nightgown. This garment was strangely incongruous in the grim reality of death. It was of sheer, white fabric, and about the arms and across the bosom it was touched here and there with pretty, cheap lace. A pink ribbon was laced through eyelets, over the shoulders and knotted in a bow in front. . . . The girl's head hung down limply as they carried her into the entry. The body sagged as though the bonds of the flesh would be dissolved, when it lay upon the floor. Under her fur robe, it was only a limp heap.

The automobile would come at midnight. Before that, there was work to be done. Fred Pellitier, the father, had come in, early in the evening, stupefied with drink. He had seen the limp body on the bed—life perhaps already fled—and had started a bellowing protest. Dr. Dudley quieted him, forced him to lie down. Now, under the fumes of the liquor, he was sleeping. His snores were audible even in the kitchen—above the roaring of the fire.

BUILT ROARING BLAZE.

The two girls there, Katherine Michaud and Alice Pellitier, looked over their shoulders nervously as they worked. The fire must be burning hotly. They splintered a soft pine log and built a roaring blaze. About their feet were tumbled a dozen garments, soft garments that lay limp as that body in the entryway.

When the fire was burning at white heat, the garments went into the stove—one after another. The stove smoked a little at first. The burning cloth smelled through the house. It was a long time before they were wholly consumed.

And then there was the wait, the dreadful wait, till Dr. Dudley and his runabout arrived. It stopped outside the door, near the entryway—where the body lay. They helped him carry the body out. The two girls would not, at first, consent to accompany him. Dr. Dudley refused to go alone—refused to drive his stark burden off into the night.

And so one girl took the seat beside him, the body was cramped into the space for baggage behind, and the other girl crouched there to hold it in place.

The lamps of the automobile made a great glare. They lighted up the road far ahead. They might attract attention. Dr. Dudley extinguished them. Then they started.

The girl on the space behind, clinging to the low rail, crushed the body tightly into the nook behind the forward seat. It was necessary to do this, otherwise it might shake off the fur robe that still covered it—might slip off into the road. Without lights it was difficult to drive carefully. The car jolted badly. It was not a pleasant ride. The night was cold. Even the limp body—spite of the fur robe that covered it—was growing cold. Also it was not now so limp as it had been.

HIDDEN BY THE WOODS.

The car with the three passengers and the body reached a spot where a certain wood road left the main highway. The auto turned along this road. Here the going was rough, but they drove more slowly, nosing ahead. They lighted a lantern. It was safe now, for the thick woods hid them from the road.

Presently the girl riding behind—where the body lay—slipped off the automobile and trotted after it, watching that the body should not slip out of place. This was better than riding—with that grim burden.

After a time they stopped. Dr. Dudley carried the fur-wrapped bundle and one of the girls took the lantern. It was then they remembered they had no spades—no implements for digging the shallow grave they contemplated.

They found sticks—heavy sticks. These would serve to scrape a shallow trench. Deep in the wood, in a hollow on a hillside, Dr. Dudley laid down his burden among the trees. In the lantern light, black shadows danced around them. Beyond the lantern's light it seemed many things might lurk.

Dr. Dudley took the lantern, looked about a bit. The two girls at first huddled by the body. Then—arm in arm—they caught up with Dr. Dudley, running a little. They said nothing, only stayed close by his elbow while he searched—till he found what he sought—a place where on the downhill side of a tree there was a natural hollow in the ground, washed out by the Spring rains.

SET LANTERN DOWN.

He set his lantern down and took a stick and began to scrape away leaves. The body lay thirty paces away, lost in the black shadows of the forest. . . . They were glad not to have it too near. The two girls took sticks and scraped and dug also. It was better than waiting—just waiting. The wood, except for their panting efforts, was very still. Now and again a breath of night wind whispered in the upper branches, but it did not penetrate to where they labored.

Presently Dr. Dudley paused—surveyed the hole they had made. It was shallow—but it would do. Human nerves could not much longer endure their efforts. He left the lantern and turned away to find the body.

He could not find it.

In the darkness, covered by the dark fur, it baffled him. He returned for the lantern. The two girls had stayed by the lantern, but now they followed him. He called upon them to help him lift the body. Between them they got it to the spot they had chosen.

DROPPED IT IN TRENCH.

They dropped it in the trench. Then bethought themselves, and took up the fur coat from around it. Even in the dim light now the body was plainly visible—covered by the sheer nightrobe—the frivolous lace and ribbon about the girlish throat. The face was upturned. They could not stand that. One stooped and forced the head around and thrust the face into a crevice beneath one of the tree roots. Thus the thing in the trench lost its appearance of humanity. It no longer reminded them that twenty-four hours before it had been a living girl. They hurried to scrape the dirt over the thing.

They hurried—perhaps that was why they were not careful to cover the straying end of pink ribbon which had become loosened at the throat. When the body was quite covered, this bit of ribbon still protruded—faintly colored in the lantern light.

The two girls left off their efforts now, while Dr. Dudley, with his foot, scuffed leaves over the fresh earth. Presently the place had resumed its normal appearance—save for certain traces about what had been the hollow below the tree.

The wood was very still all about them. The pink ribbon was not so apparent now, under the leaves. It would do—they turned, as with one thought—and fled from the spot. They stumbled through the woods. They were whipped by bushes, and torn by briers, and they tripped and all but fell over treacherous roots and shrubs. The lantern, they extinguished; and in the dark came at last to the automobile.

And so presently back to the edge of town—there to scatter, the doctor to his office, the girls, secretly, to their homes.

The wood they had left was very silent. But the pink ribbon, even now, to a close observer, was visible among the leaves. It would be visible two months later—when the searchers came.

Gas Light Prevents Eye-Strain

ARTIFICIAL LIGHT should possess the qualities of daylight—clear, soft, mellow, well-diffused, steady, yet powerful. In the inspection of merchandise, in study at home, in all work under artificial light, a weak or harsh light brings eye-strain—and that means irritated nerves and impaired efficiency.

GAS LIGHT IS THE IDEAL LIGHT—AND IT IS MORE ECONOMICAL THAN ANY OTHER

In the Home

Parents should exercise the greatest care in seeing that the children read and study only under the best light obtainable. Every precaution should be taken against eyestrain. The best precaution—and the best economy—is to provide clear, mellow, daylight-quality gas lighting.

In the Store

The semi-indirect lighting fixture, illustrated above, gives a scientifically perfect light for commercial purposes. It brings increased business by adding to the appearance of the store, by soothing the nerves of customers and by increasing employes' efficiency.

IF the present plans of P. J. Riddell go through, Boston will be the battleground of one of the biggest individual bowling matches ever rolled, according to a well informed alley manager of this city. This match, if made, will combine the three styles of pin, bottle, duck and candle.

Riddell, who is one of the "big men" in the Brunswick-Balke, is planning to bring to Boston his son, Glen, the champion bottlepin bowler of New York City. This done, the senior Riddell will challenge Paul Poehler, on behalf of Glen, to a match of candlepins, duckpins and bottlepins.

The younger Riddell is admittedly a better big pin bowler than Poehler, but the New England champion will have the advantage at ducks and candles.

* * *

THE small pins are used very little outside of New England, but Riddell has rolled against them frequently and is said to be well versed with the small ball. Young Riddell is a star on the alleys, being clever and having a keen eye for the wood. He is a wonder against the bottlepins.

This is the first inter-city match of this kind ever attempted and will not only prove a big attraction but should help to revive the bottlepin game in Boston.

* * *

THE Egleston Square alleys will stage the counter attraction in the Greater Boston League this evening. The Forest Hills team will stack its wares against that of the Rowe's Wharf aggregation. There is only a point difference between these two teams, and as far as the pinfall is concerned, they seem very evenly matched.

By the looks of things Murray should add considerably to its lead. The South End aggregation will be pitted against Regal, which has lost as many points as the leaders have won. Terminal meets Casino, Hanover Street tackles Bowdoin Square, and Cambridge goes to Winthrop in the other three contests.

* * *

THE local Y. M. C. A. is bent on bettering its position in the Greater Boston Y. M. C. A. League and hopes to do so tonight when it faces Hyde Park. Boston took four points from the Ward 26 quintet last week.

* * *

OSGOOD will have very little opposition in the way of keeping its hold on first place in the Furniture League this evening. The leaders face McArthur, the tailender. Meanwhile Atkinson will try to gain back some of its lost prestige by tacking a defeat on Shawmut. But that job is by no means an easy one.

* * *

TUESDAY is proving to be the heaviest bowling night of the week this season. More than a score of leagues will peg at the maples this evening.

* * *

THE Gilmour-Rothery and John C. Paige & Co. quintets, holders of first and second places in the Fire Insurance League, will meet tonight at Littlefield's. There is only a margin of one point between the two.

* * *

THE Y. M. H. A. League, with eight teams in line, will open its season at the Rowe's Wharf alleys next Monday night.

* * *

SAMMY GREEN will take a place in the Rowe's Wharf lineup when the Suburban League meets next Friday night.

* * *

WITH Thanksgiving coming on, many of the alleys are planning their annual turkey rolloffs. Manager Fred Hartford of the Arch street lanes will conduct an event of this kind, starting with the qualification rounds in a week or so.

WHITE'S RALLY WINS A DRAW WITH WELSH

By EDWARD SMITH.

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 10.—Fighting like a coming champion for the last two rounds against a real champion, who had piled up a long lead on him in the first eight rounds, Charley White contrived to get an even break with Freddie Welsh last night.

White did not make his effort until the ninth round. Welsh had him looking bad up to that time. Then, like a flash, the whole situation changed. White lost his flat footedness and sailed in with the evident intention of snatching the title away from the Welshman on a knockout. He got home a couple of the famous right hooks a trifle high, but effective nevertheless.

The right went over solidly to the eel-like head of the champion, and Welsh sagged a bit at the knees. He wobbled back and forth, the fighting instinct strong and his tremendous aggressiveness still predominating.

Seeing his advantage, White tore in desperately. He seemed to stagger the still smiling Briton, and again there was a suspicious bend of the leg.

But that marvelous defensive skill of Welsh came to his aid in this crisis, and he weathered the round.

Tearing in with eagerness in the tenth, Welsh got close and came to a clinch. He held for the moment the now thoroughly aroused White, tearing, pulling and hauling to get loose. Charley shot in the left hook, missed by a couple of inches, tried again and landed. Once more that suspicious bend of the knees and then came the real fighting of the night.

They stood to it breast to breast, Welsh weaving in and out now only with his courage left, but plenty of that to offset the belated attack of the Chicago fighter.

A clinch, a tight hold, much roughing, and they were pried apart by the referee. Welsh, the instinct yet strong, took two steps in flashing out with a couple of leads. Bang came the heads together, White's crown catching Welsh on the right side of the forehead.

Instantly came a long, ragged streak of blood down through the champion's face. Welsh was blinded for an instant and wiped the stream that was trickling over his eyelids.

Ablaze, White raced and tore, swung, hooking and slashing, landing too high on the head or too low on the elbows and the forearms of the champion, who now defended himself mechanically and with just a flash of spirit.

They both wobbled, Welsh from the impact of White's terrific punches and White through the manner in which Welsh, by dint of his last ounce of force, threw him off.

As the last bell sounded, Welsh, the smile now sickly and gray, turned gladly to his corner, while the Chicagoan, disappointed that his knockout opportunity should be thus shut off, waved his dripping gloves at the frantic crowd.

JEANETTE FAVORITE TO DEFEAT JOHNSON

By RINGSIDE

Joe Jeanette rules a ten to seven favorite in the betting for his twelve-round bout with Battling Jim Johnson, which will be held at the Atlas A. A. tonight. The wise men believe that the Hoboken man's snappy left jab will enable him to outpoint his rugged opponent.

Johnson, however, does not lack backers. Many of the "fans" are picking him to win. They figure that his natural fighting ability and great strength will enable him to dispose of the crafty Jeanette.

The contest is not a championship affair, as neither Jeannette nor Johnson sports any kind of pugilistic crown. Both men are classed among the world's leading heavyweights and are able to vanquish about all of our noble "white hopes."

The tussle has aroused considerable interest and a good sized crowd is expected to turn out to witness the festivities. If the rival boxers perform at their best, those who journey to the Arena should witness a slashing contest.

JEANETTE RING VETERAN.

Jeanette is well known to Boston fistic lovers as he has engaged in some thrilling battles in this city with Sam Langford. He is a veteran of the boxing game and has been earning a livelihood by the power of his fists for the past decade. He is one of the few fighters who have been able to make things interesting for Langford.

The Hoboken negro is a fine specimen of physical development. He is five feet ten inches tall and weighs close to 195 pounds. He does not carry around any superfluous flesh like Sam Langford. As a result, he is able to move around the ring with great speed.

It is not believed that Jeanette will attempt to rough things with Johnson. The latter is as strong as the proverbial lion and Jeanette would be foolish to exchange punches with him.

Joe will probably try to box at long range. He will use his long left hand as much as possible to keep Johnson at bay. He will then be able to smash away at Johnson's kidneys and stomach with his right when in the clinches.

Johnson has already engaged in two bouts in this city. He met "Porky" Flynn in his first appearance here and lost a close decision. It is doubtful whether Flynn would have won if Johnson had not been handicapped in his work by the referee, who refused to permit him to do much fighting at close quarters.

Johnson was later matched to exchange punches with Sam Langford. The "Human Submarine" was a heavy favorite in the betting, but when the last gun was fired the tussle was declared a draw. The writer contended at the time that Langford was entitled to the verdict, but we were forced to hand it to Johnson for his fine work.

JOHNSON RUGGED FIGHTER.

The battling person is not the most finished boxer in the world. He has also a number of things to learn about the manly art, but he is big and powerful enough to make things interesting for the best of them.

The Tennessee giant is crude in his movements, but this seems to puzzle his opponents. It will be remembered that a great part of the success of "Kayo" Brown, the New York lightweight, was due to his awkward style of fighting.

Johnson has improved a whole lot during the past six months. He is boxing much better than when he first showed in this city and declares that he will grab off the honors tonight.

Jeannette and Johnson are old rivals and have met on numerous occasions. Their last three tussles were no-decision affairs and were held in New York. In the second of these bouts, Johnson claims he stopped Jeannette with a body blow. Referee Job, however, declared that the punch was low and allowed Joe three minutes to recuperate from its effects.

Patsey Haley of New York, will act as the third man in the ring tonight. Haley, it will be remembered, officiated at the Cross-Gallant whirl which was held here last month.

BUTLER MEETS BEYERS.

Walter Butler of Beachmont, and Charley Beyers, the hard-hitting South End lightweight, will exchange punches in the semi-final match of eight rounds. There will also be two six-round preliminaries.

100 ATHLETES TO RUN HERE IN CROSS COUNTRY

More than 100 athletes, representing nine colleges, will compete in the third annual cross-country run of the New England Intercollegiate Athletic Association over the Franklin Field course next Saturday morning. The race will begin at 11 o'clock.

Entries have been received from Amherst, Brown, Colby, Dartmouth, Tech, Maine, M. A. C., Williams and Worcester Tech.

Holy Cross, Bates, Trinity, Tufts, Vermont and Wesleyan did not enter teams.

Tech, Dartmouth and Amherst will start the biggest fields of runners, all three having entered the full complement of twenty.

Cardinals for Sale for Half a Million

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 10.—Schuyler Britton, president of the St. Louis National League ball club, will sell the Cardinals for $500,000, players, plant and good will.

This was the price that he set when told of the peace plan which is said to have been discussed at the American League meeting in Chicago whereby the St. Louis Federals will be asked to buy either the Cardinals or the Browns.

Girl Hockey Teams Arrange for Game

The Arlington High School Girls' Field Hockey team has accepted the challenge to play the Lexington High Field Hockey eleven, and the first game probably will be played next Tuesday afternoon at Lexington and the second contest on Tuesday, November 24, at Arlington. Lexington High has also challenged Newton High.

All Stars-Indians Game to Aid Children's Home

Many Eastern college football stars of recent years, most of them Harvard men, will face the picturesque Carlisle Indians on the gridiron at Fenway Park on Saturday, November 28, in a benefit game for the Children's Island Sanatarium.

The contest will undoubtedly prove one of the biggest attractions that has taken place around Boston for years. Those in charge of the affair are delighted in the success of their plans. Every football star whom they approached readily consented to don the moleskins for this worthy cause.

Therefore, football followers will be given an opportunity to see the big rivals of the past line up side by side in battle against the clever Indians.

Among others who have agreed to play are: Percy "Bullet" Wendell, the dashing captain of the Harvard 1912 team; "Vic" Kennard, whose timely field goal brought victory to the Crimson over Yale some few years back; "Ham" Fish, the sterling Harvard leader of 1909; the brilliant "Hobey" Baker, whose name is a household word at Princeton; Pendleton, another Tiger whirlwind; "Dezzie" Wardsworth, a wonder when at Williams; Sherwood of Dartmouth, and Jack Wendell, Pat Grant, Paul Withington, Crawford Blagden, Harry Gardner, "Dono" Minot, "Lo" Withington, Jack Parkinson, Freddy Huntington, "Rex" Hitchcock and Dick Lawrence, all of Harvard.

But the efforts of the committee have not ended here, for they are now trying to get Ted Coy or Philbin, the Yale sensations; Bob Fisher, a former Crimson captain and the present Harvard team to play.

They are also endeavoring to bolster up the Indian line-up, and for this purpose have asked the Carlisle authorities to help them to secure Jim Thorpe, Lone Star and Mt. Pleasant.

The All Star team will be coached by Percy Haughton, the successful Harvard tutor, who has had much to do with the success of many of the men who will take part in the game.

The All Stars will begin training immediately. Those in or near New York will practice under the guidance of "Ham" Fish, while Harry Gardner will have charge of the local men.

All the profits of the game will be turned over to the Children's Island Sanatorium. This institution owns an island hospital at the mouth of Marblehead Harbor, and every Summer it takes care of numbers of tubercular and anaemic poor children of Boston.

The children are sent to the island on the recommendation of the Children's Hospital and other well-recognized charitable institutions, when, in their opinion, the child's life would be endangered if left in the hot city over the Summer months.

The results during the twenty-nine years of the island's existence have been so remarkable as to justify every effort to increase its usefulness.

HARVARD STARS BACK FOR BATTLE WITH YALE

By "AL."

Harvard's final week of football practice is on at the Stadium. A few scrimmages, then the Brown game, and it will be a case of keep in trim for the final contest of the year with Yale.

Work for the veterans will be very light. All the men have been pronounced fit by Pooch Donovan, Harvard trainer, and from now on all care will be exercised to see that none of the regulars go stale. The big drill of the week will be devoted to perfecting the trick plays that will be used against Yale.

There's hardly a chance that anything new will be sprung against the Brunonians, unless another one of those great football surprises is sprung and an apparently weak team starts to harry the big Cambridge outfit unnecessarily.

ANXIOUS FOR POST SEASON GAME.

Harvard's regulars, when they finally were 11 massed together against the Tigers, showed beyond doubt that they had all the power that has made the Crimson teams famous in years since the mighty Brickley first burst on the horizon of Cambridge football.

Brickley is no more on the team—though he may yet get in for a placement kick against the Elis after a fair catch—but Brickley's spirit still lives and he has a worthy successor in Eddie Mahan and yet another in "Tacks" Hardwick.

The principal interest in and about the Stadium these days is centred in the proposed clash of the East and West after the regular season has ended. The Harvard players, almost to a man, would like to have a game with the champions of the West.

Of course there is no doubt in the minds of the players that the Crimson will outpoint the Blue down at New Haven and accordingly be declared champions of the world. And we have no doubt the same sentiment exists in the ranks of the Yale players.

MAY ANNOUNCE PLAN TODAY.

But it's certain that the authorities will never consent to the team putting on an extra game, though no objection will be raised to letting some of the best men play with an all-star aggregation.

While such a game would not draw as well as a regular college battle, it certainly would be a big sporting event and would swell considerably the coffers of the Belgian Red Cross relief fund.

It is expected that some definite announcement of plans will be made today by the Harvard authorities who were in communication yesterday with the Western proposers of the plan.

Yesterday's work at the Stadium was very light, very few of the regulars putting in an appearance. One and all were somewhat stiff and sore after the strain of the Princeton game and welcomed the opportunity to enjoy a day of rest.

But all will be back on the job this afternoon, excepting Francke, who was shaken up more than the rest, and will not appear in togs again until tomorrow.

SOUCY MAY GET BACK IN GAME.

The word was passed around today that Soucy, the end who has been on the hospital list since the Penn State game, might possibly get back into trim for the Yale battle. He has had his left knee encased in a plaster cast, but the covering will be removed tomorrow, and the Infirmary officials claim that he may possibly round to in time for the big game of the year.

If Soucy can get back into trim the chances are he will be used at centre, with Hardwick and Coolidge on the ends, that part of the team is well cared for and a good passing centre would be a great help.

Practically the only weakness in Harvard's offensive game Saturday was poor passing from the centre. Mahan lost a chance for an easy field goal owing to a poor pass, and had to hurry several of his punts for the same reason.

Soucy has always been a most accurate snapper back, besides being very powerful on the defensive, and the chances are he will supplant Wallace if he can get into the game once more.

MORGAN BACK WITH SQUAD.

Morgan, the husky tackle of last year's crack freshman team, will be with the squad again this week, and is sure to give Parsons a hot run for a tackle position.

Even though the coaches have declared that there is no chance of his playing again, Captain Brickley refuses to be a pessimist and will continue working out with the squad in the hope that the bar will be lifted and he may be given a chance to perform against Yale.

He expects to shift over shortly and start kicking again with that unerring right foot.

BROWN WORKING HARD FOR GAME WITH HARVARD

PROVIDENCE, Nov. 10.—The Brown team came through the Yale game in splendid condition, and every man will be in shape for the Harvard game Saturday.

The little backs, Clark and Murphy, were considerably bruised by hard tackling, and Bailey is a little the worse for wear, but all these men will be ready for scrimmage tomorrow.

The coaching problem this week is to bring further improvement in a defensive war. Brown coaches realize that the Harvard offence is a stiff problem to meet, but figure that if the team responds to coaching as last week Brown will prove a stiff proposition for the Crimson.

Brown men feel a little nettled because the splendid achievement of the team in playing Yale practically to a standstill has gone unnoticed.

The facts are that Brown had a cleverly devised defence against Yale attack, which prevented a Yale earned touchdown until the last few minutes of play. Even then it required four tries for Yale to push the ball two yards for a touchdown.

Starting with a large squad of green men, Brown has been making definite progress, and, while a great team could hardly be expected this year, the team has developed a strong, well varied offence, and the defence has shown steady improvement.

Coach Robinson announced that Ward, the tackle whose collarbone was broken in the Cornell game, would be able to play Saturday, though it is probable that Bailey will be used at Ward's tackle the greater part of the game.

School Notes

Seven schools of the Mystic Valley will start a squad of men in the annual Mystic Valley cross-country run which will take place on Friday afternoon on the Spy Pond course in Arlington. The schools that have sent in entries are Winchester High, Woburn High, Stoneham High, Wakefield High, Peabody High and Arlington High. Each school can enter seven men for the run, but not more than three can count in the final.

* * *

Arlington High has already been conceded the championship, but some of the other teams are liable to spring dark horses who will have a strong bearing on the final totalling of points. Wakefield High looks good for second place with a team that finished sixth at the annual New England Interscholastic run at Worcester on Saturday.

* * *

Goodwin of Wakefield has all the earmarks of a fine hill and dale runner and should make a strong bid for first honors with Kimball of Arlington, Latham of Woburn and Collins of Arlington following him closely all of the way. McDermott of Stoneham High, brother of the athlete now at Exeter, should make some of the leaders hustle for their honors.

* * *

Faculty Manager Marks of the Everett High School football team has received numerous challenges for post-season games, but it is not expected that Everett will play any more games than already scheduled. Holyoke, Chicopee High, Coburn Classical High of Waterville, Me., Stamford High, Keewatin Academy, Haverhill High, Huntington School and Lafayette High of Buffalo, N. Y., all want to play Everett this season.

* * *

Paul Hillery, the former Rindge Technical star, who has been playing halfback for St. Anselm's this season, is at his home in Cambridge suffering from a slight head concussion.

* * *

A big mass meeting will be held at Mechanic Arts High School tomorrow afternoon by the students to rehearse school songs and cheers to be used Thursday when the Montgomery street team plays the High School of Commerce eleven at Fenway Park.

* * *

The annual football game between Arlington High and Melrose High, scheduled to be played in Arlington this season, has been shifted to Melrose as the accommodations are better.

* * *

The Huntington School track candidates reported to Captain Zeigler yesterday afternoon. Twenty-five boys answered the call and a championship team is looked for.

College Football

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 10.—Head Coach Frank Hinkey put the Yale squad through two and one half hours of hard work at Yale Field. With the exception of Higginbotham all of the regulars were in signal practice. Higginbotham confined his drill to running up and down the side lines limbering up a bad ankle. Knowles took his place at right halfback. Legore played fullback and Ainsworth was at left halfback, while Aleck Wilson ran the team at quarterback. In the signal drill the forward passing went exceptionally well and Wilson had plenty of snap, although neither he nor Captain Talbott appeared to have recovered fully from their recent injuries. Later the regular backfield was displaced and the line had a fifteen minute scrimmage against the scrubs. Although the work of the varsity forwards showed some improvement, the scrubs held their opponents fairly even until a rally at the end of the scrimmage period came and the varsity's substitute backs carried the ball down the field in straight rushes. Waite went over for a touchdown.

* * *

WEST POINT, Nov. 10.—Every Army regular reported for strenuous work except McEwen, the big Minnesota centre rush. McEwen is playing in hard luck these days, for he added a bad shoulder bruise to his list of injuries in Saturday's game with Notre Dame. The latest sore spot is likely to keep him idle during most of the work this week. After a short blackboard drill the coaches ordered a half hour's skull practice and rule quiz and followed up the theoretical program with an hour and a half of work on the gridiron. There was no hard scrimmaging, the bunched up forwards being sent at charging and breaking through. The ends had a short forward pass drill and the backs one in kicking and in defensive formation.

* * *

ITHACA, Nov. 10.—There will be only one change in the lineup of the Cornell team for the Michigan game, according to the present plans of the coaches. This will be a right tackle, a position held this far by Bailey, who was injured in the Franklin and Marshall game Saturday. Line Coach Reed will try out three men in the scrimmages this week and choose the player making the best showing. The three are Jewett, Fisher and Allen.

* * *

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 10.—About three hundred undergraduates of University of Pennsylvania showed real college spirit when they got up at 6.30 o'clock, marched two miles to the Reading Terminal and then waited fifty minutes in the cold so that they could give the shattered team a rousing welcome on its return from Michigan and put new life into the men. Three of the regulars are likely to be kept out of the game Saturday because of injuries. Clay Urquhart, the diminutive end, has a strained ankle. Vreeland, a halfback, again hurt his knee and Hopkins, Urquhart's running mate, also turned his ankle badly.

* * *

ANNAPOLIS, Nov. 10.—The Naval Academy football team heard a long blackboard talk, the text being the faults of the team as displayed against Fordham Saturday. Head Coach Howard and Coach Vaughan did the talking, and about half of the practice period was consumed. The rest was devoted to kicking, formations and signals, but there was no scrimmage. The coaches have not been satisfied with any one who had been tried at right end, and are considering moving Schlossbach, whose playing has been one of the surprises of the season, to that place, filling his position at right tackle with either Denoole or Ward.

* * *

EASTON, Pa., Nov. 10.—For the first time this year Coach Crowell was able to start the Lafayette practice on Monday with the same team that started the game on the Saturday before. Not a man was injured in the melee with Muhlenburg. Word has been received from Kennedy that he has escaped typhoid fever and will be with the squad this week. Crowell worked his varsity on the signals until it was dark.

SOUTH BETHLEHEM, Pa., Nov. 10.—Lehigh celebrated its victory over Penn State by a big parade around Bethlehem. The football team occupied a float. Contrary to expectations Coach Keady called for practice yesterday afternoon. The weather was bracing and the men, full of confidence, showed the best Monday spirit of the year. Signal work and plenty of limbering up exercise were given the men. The Lehigh varsity has given its consent for the playing of a game with Williams College for the Belgian relief fund in New York or Boston on Thanksgiving Day or November 30, and word to this effect has been sent to Williams.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Nov. 10.—Cornell plays in the hands of the Michigan scrubs enabled the youngsters to play rings around the varsity second team, and the coaches had to drive the big fellows an hour before Bushnell finally plunged across for the touchdown, which tied the count. The reserves had the ball inside the ten-yard line of the varsity men five different times, but lacked the punch to go across on all except one occasion, when Cohan tallied.

Danny Green Dead.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 10.—Danny Green, at one time a star outfielder on the Chicago National and American League baseball teams, is dead in an institution in Camden, N. J.

OLD STARS BACK ON FIRING LINE FOR YALE SQUAD

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 10.—Opening the week of the Princeton game with a fifteen-minute whirlwind scrimmage, Coach Hinkey of the Yale eleven began the final period of the season's practice.

Every first-string player was on hand, and all except Higginbotham and Van Holt were in the signal lineup. It was announced that there is no chance of Higginbotham getting into the Princeton game. His ankle has not quite recovered its strength.

Von Holt is only a possibility for part of the game as a reserve guard or tackle. A small bone in his wrist was broken five weeks ago.

Carl Betts was removed to right tackle, displacing Chub Sheldon. Betts improved rapidly during the three weeks he was given Captain Talbot's berth at left tackle, and it is about an even thing between him and Sheldon for the place on the right wing.

Captain Talbot played throughout the practice, and the rush line sent into the scrimmaging was the same as that which faced Brown, with the exception of right tackle.

Behind the line the big four, Aleck Wilson, Ainsworth, Le Gore and Knowles, took its place for the signal work, but all retired when scrimmaging began.

Scovil replaced both Ainsworth and Wilson at times during the signal rehearsal.

The coaches have not absolutely settled upon the backfield, as Knowles and Wilson are not quite in their best form.

The practice marked the reappearance of Wilson in the lineup after a three weeks' rest, and Knowles after an enforced vacation of five days.

The backfield selected included MacLeish, White, Bently and Guernsey. Bently gave exceptional promise at the opening of the season, but was slightly injured, and only recently returned to the squad after his layoff.

Improved playing by Brann and Stillman, the varsity ends, relieved the coaches somewhat. These positions have been played the most poorly of any on the team.

Donovan Lasts Six Rounds with Gibbons

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Mike Gibbons of St. Paul defeated Young Mike Donovan of this city in a ten-round match here, the referee stopping the one-sided contest in the sixth round to prevent a knockout.

Donovan was unable to make any impression on the Western boxer, who displayed his usual cleverness. Gibbons scored two knockdowns in the fifth round.

Johanason Downs Lenhart.

Elmer Johanason, the Norwegian wrestler, defeated Carl Lenhart in two straight falls at St. Jean Hall, Malden. Arthur Devine defeated Young Marchand of New Bedford. Devine took first and third falls in twelve and eight minutes respectively.

Syracuse Students Coming as Freight to See Game Here

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Nov. 10.—Anxious to attend the Syracuse-Dartmouth game at Fenway Park, in Boston, next week, seventy-five undergraduates who have not the requisite $16 for round-trip tickets on regular passenger trains, are planning to go to the game in a box car, shipped as freight.

Duly accredited representatives of these seventy-five have started negotiations with the New York Central Railroad for a car which, it is estimated, can be secured for $300 for the round trip.

If the arrangements go through the students will demand some sort of a guarantee that the car is not sidetracked en route.

One-Legged Captain Football Wonder

ALLIANCE, O., Nov. 10.—The Athletics, a strong independent football eleven of this city, claims the distinction of being the only football team in the world which is led by a one-legged captain.

Virgil Oswalt is the crippled star's name, and he is the mainstay of the team, which is one of the fastest in the State.

In the last three games played by the Athletics Oswalt has, by his fine individual work and wonderful handling of the forward pass, brought his team from behind and won a great victory in each instance.

Heine Orchard Gets Verdict Over White

NEWPORT, R. I., Nov. 10.—"Heinie" Orchard of the Navy was given the decision over Joe White of Pawtucket in the main bout here after a rugged twelve-round bout.

The referee's decision did not meet the approval of the crowd.

"Kid" Scrola and Young Curry, both of Fall River, put up a hard, even fight, Scrola putting Curry away in the fourth with a short right uppercut.

"Johnnie" Kilroy of New York defeated Joe Robinson of the Navy in a four-round bout and the McCarthy-Chester bout was a draw.

Racing at End in British Columbia

VANCOUVER, B. C., Nov. 10.—The death knell of racing has been sounded in British Columbia. After running for 104 days the British Columbia Thoroughbred Association has finally drawn the curtains and in the opinion of all connected with the sport there will be no more race meets in this part of the country with either pari mutuels or bookmakers.

Next week the officials of the association will appear in the assize court and answer to charges of violating the laws of the country.

BASEBALL WAR TO END QUICKLY IS THE BELIEF

OMAHA, Neb., Nov. 10.—Minor league baseball magnates met here today in annual conference of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues. They are almost unanimous in their opinion that the baseball war will be over within forty-eight hours and that when Ban B. Johnson, Garry Herrmann and one or two of the other big guns arrive an announcement to that effect will be made at the conference.

The men of the minors have been sounding each other out and it developed quickly that the sentiment would be that something simply had to be done by the majors to bring about peace or that the minors would take some decisive action before the Omaha meeting adjourned. And if the fight between the majors and the Federals is not settled, sentiment as expressed on all sides is that the minors will abrogate their present arrangements with the majors and arrange some sort of working agreement among themselves.

But even with the Federal ghost out of the way the majors are not clear with the minors. The latter, having taken the bit between their teeth, are going after some other concessions. N. P. Corish of Savannah, Ga., president of the South Atlantic League, is spokesman for a bunch of smaller men and he will take the lead tomorrow in asking the conference to make an effort to secure representation upon the National Commission. Mr. Corish said:

"Today I shall introduce a resolution in the conference to appoint a committee to force the National Commission to recognize the minors and give them a voice in its affairs. Present conditions are intolerable. The majors have almost ruined every minor in the country and we are going to fix things so they can't do it again after we recover this time."

President Corish also will introduce a resolution asking a committee to notify the majors that hereafter major recruits must spend from one to two years in the minors before they are eligible to major leagues in return for the minors taking the has beens off the hands of majors.

Gamblers in Plot to Have Michigan Throw Cornell Game

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Nov. 10.—A tremendous sensation was caused here today when it became known an attempt had been made to induce Michigan University players to throw the coming Michigan-Cornell game to the Ithacans.

An Ann Harbor pool room proprietor, it is alleged, offered to "fix" Maulbetsch and Hughitt for the Cornell game for a consideration of $2,000, adding that he would get $15,000 of Cornell money covered so that backers of the big Red team would be recompensed for their trouble and at the same time feel secure in victory for the Easterners next Saturday.

Fielder Jones May Buy Portland Club

PORTLAND, Or., Nov. 10.—In the course of the next few weeks the control of the Portland club in the Pacific Coast League is expected to pass from the hands of the McCredies, under whose ownership the team has won six championships in the past ten years, to that of Fielder Jones, former president of the Northwestern League, and now manager of the St. Louis Federal League club.

Although the club is held at a substantial figure, Jones has money enough to buy it three or four times over, and his presence in the league would, it is asserted, strengthen the entire organization.

Bulgar Lowe Named Exeter Hockey Head

George A. "Bull" Lowe of Arlington, has been elected captain of the Exeter hockey team for next season.

His selection was to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of George A. Percey of Arlington, who did not return to school.

Lowe's work on the ice and also on the football field is well known, and it was much of his fast work as a rover last year that helped to defeat Andover at the Boston Arena last February.

CHAPTER XVIII.—(Continued)

GAVESTON saw that his shot had told. "He told you that you were, then?" he asked.

"Never mind that—in point of fact he didn't—but what do you know about him?" There was a new note of anger in her voice. "You don't know that he's ever loved a woman before."

Sir Ralph knocked the ash off his cigarette and knitted his brows, pretending to wrestle between a sense of delicacy and his plain duty.

"As it happens I do know—a little. A man I knew saw him with me last night, and told me—forgive me for telling you"—he placed his hand on her knee—"that Steele had an affair years ago with a girl, a nursery maid—at Hastings. He eloped with the girl and she's never been heard of since. A nasty story." The baronet made a gesture of disgust.

Those strange eyes were flashing lightnings now: "I don't believe a word of it," she cried. "How long ago was this?"

"About four or five years ago, I believe. But, my dear girl, that isn't all. You were aboard the steamer. Did you notice anything between him and—well, I must out with it—my cousin's wife, Mrs. Varney?"

"Do you mean to suggest he and Mrs. Varney are in love with each other?" she demanded, almost hissing the question.

Mrs. Melas puffed viciously at her cigarette. "Have you told Mr. Varney this?"

"Is it likely? I don't wish to disturb his peace of mind." His hands trembled a little. "Of course, I may rely on you to say nothing to him either."

"That's all right, I'm not a sneak. We harem women were taught to hang together." She rose and drew her wrap round her. "What's your object in telling me this?" she inquired, looking at him resolutely.

"Because I love you, Jenny. I ask you to turn away that man; I ask you to be my wife."

CHAPTER XIX.

"I SEE," said Jenny. "Well, I can't say this is very sudden, for I suspected that you were leading up to a proposal. Your methods remind me of the old gag about blackguarding the plaintiff's attorney."

She giggled, as she always did when disconcerted or in doubt how to proceed. She looked the baronet up and down, quizzically, critically. He cut a fine and aristocratic figure in his Savile-row evening clothes, and in the shaded light of the lamps might have passed for forty-five or thereabouts. The suggestion of dissipation about him was not altogether distasteful to a woman completely enamored of the gay life.

He shrugged his shoulders. "I'm aware," he admitted, "that it sounds mean to give another man away like this, but you know the saying, 'All's fair in love and war.' Steele has stolen a march on me."

Sir Ralph waved his long, thin hand. "Oh, my dear girl, I know that type. He's risen from the people and poses as a plain, straightforward, pure-minded Englishman. No doubt he has represented me to you as an awful example of our effete aristocracy—as a roue, a profligate, Lord knows what!"

The woman again interrupted him. "He hasn't, in point of fact, but if he had he wouldn't be far wrong, would he?"

Sir Ralph took the cigarette from his lips and blew out a cloud of smoke with an air of impatient contempt. "There's no humbug about me, anyway. I never pretended to be a saint. I've gone the pace in my time and never grudged the price I paid. Do you suppose all these outsiders who hold up their hands at us in horror wouldn't do the same if they had the chance? It's jealousy, mere class jealousy, I tell you. And my young friend Steele proves it. A pretty story, on my word! Gets round some poor little devil of a nursemaid, gets her sacked from her situation, then leaves her in the lurch."

To Be Continued Tomorrow.

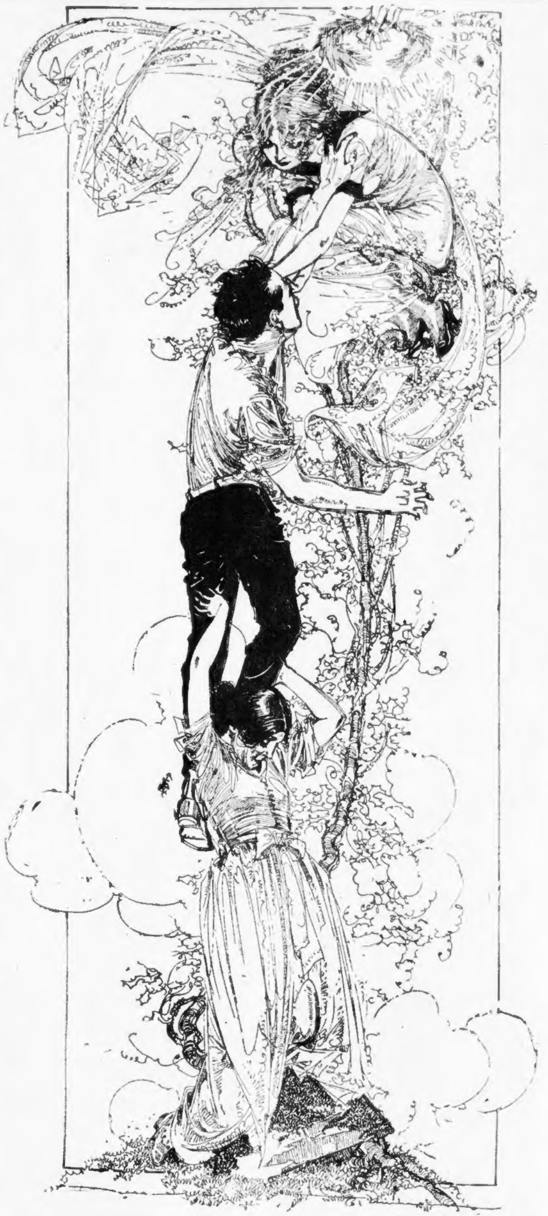
Mlle. Zina Brozia of the Opera-Comique, Paris, says: "The use of Savon Cadum is a guarantee of a beautiful complexion."

Many complexions are ruined through the false economy of using cheap and impure soap. The beauty of a woman's face and hands is worth more than the few cents saved in the use of an inferior soap. Savon Cadum, the great French Complexion soap, is as pure as is possible for any soap to be made. It costs more than the ordinary soap because it is worth more. At drug and dept. stores, 50c.

Mother and Wife

By NELL BRINKLEY

Copyright, 1914, by International News Service



A BIG man (big because he didn't keep this to himself) said to me a small while ago, with a deepening and roughening of his voice and his eyes glittered with tears, "I'm a bit proud, of course, and like to hope that I helped get there, but let me tell you, little madame, I had a 'boost' and a 'lift' to help me to my look through the knothole into the game of Success! And every chap who's possessed those two 'commonplace' things, a good mother and a good wife, if he tells the golden truth, dipped his spoon into the Pudding of Fortune with these same four hands holding him up. My mother—my little, delicate, sturdy, angular mother—boosted from the day I can remember 'til, when she held my great manhood on her frail shoulders, I reached the lift of my wife's delicate, strong hands held down to me. Strange how much weight in discouraged man one little woman can uplift! Between the two of them I never took my eyes off the Laurel Wreath that everybody's hustling after one way or another, and between my BOOST and my LIFT that never gave out I've got a few of its treasured leaves in my grasp!"—NELL BRINKLEY.

Up-to-the-Minute Jokes

A buxom farm lass was recently called as a witness in a case in a county court. The girl happened to mention that her sweeheart knew something about the matter.

"Oh," said the judge, "then I think we had better call him to court."

The girl blushed furiously.

"It won't be any good, sir," she protested. "Ah'm fair to put it to get him to court when we're alone, an' ah'm sure he won't do it before all you gentlemen."

* * *

"So you've got an accident to report, have you?" said the head clerk to the foreman of the works.

"Yes, sir," said the foreman. Then he paused a while, gnawing his pen reflectively, before handing over his report.

The latter read as follows:

"Date: March 31st. Nature of accident: Toe badly crushed. How caused: Accidental blow from a fellow workman's hammer. Remarks—"

"Right," said the clerk. "But why no remarks?"

"Well, sir," replied the foreman slowly, "seein' as 'ow you know what Bill is, and seein' as 'ow you know that it was 'is big toe what was hurt, I—well, I didn't like to put 'em down."

* * *

The managing editor wheeled his chair around and pushed a button in the wall. The person wanted entered the room.

"Here," said the editor, "are a number of directions from outsiders as to the best way to run a newspaper. See that they are all carried out."

And the office boy gathering them all into a large waste-paper basket, did so.

An Unfailing Way to Banish Hairs

(Beauty Notice)

Ugly hair growths can be removed in the privacy of your own home if you get a small original package of delatone and mix into a paste enough of the powder and water to cover the hairy surface. This should be left on the skin about 2 minutes, then removed and the skin washed and every trace of hair will have vanished. No harm or inconvenience can result from this treatment, but be sure you buy real delatone.—ADVERTISEMENT.

THE FORTUNES OF FANNY

She Resents the Coarse Attempts of Hermann to Show His Admiration

By Virginia Terhune Van de Water

CHAPTER IV.

Copyright, 1914, by the Star Company

WHEN Fanny Hedden reached Mrs Jacobs' apartment after a futile search for work, she did not tell her hostess that she had not lunched. She was too proud to do this. Yet the fear that she would not secure employment before her present supply of money was gone had deterred her from buying anything to eat at noontime. In reply to Mrs Jacobs' questions Fanny admitted that as yet she had found no employment, adding that she was sure she would do so soon. Then she asked to be allowed to help the matron about her household duties.

"It will make me feel so much more comfortable," the girl reminded her, "if I do a little something to make myself useful while I'm here. Let me get dinner for you—won't you?"

"Dinner!" laughed Mrs. Jacobs. "We don't have dinner nights. We ain't no swells. Stella and Hermann and Popper get hearty meals at noon, so night we only have a hot supper same as you got last evenin'!"

"Yes, I know," Fanny corrected her blunder hastily. "I meant to say 'supper.' We often had supper at night, too, grandma and I."

Tears rose to her eyes as she remembered how her elderly relative used to laugh and say that they were "fashionable folks" and had dinner at night, whenever she made a pot of soup for the evening meal. She had taught Fanny to cook many wholesome articles, although she knew nothing of fancy cookery.

"Can you get a supper by yourself?" Mrs. Jacobs asked curiously. "Or did your gran'ma always do that for the two of you?"

"Oh, no, I know how to cook," Fanny assured her. "Why not tell me what you are going to have tonight and let me get it ready for you?"

She was sincere in her desire to be of use and thus lessen her sense of dependence, and after a little more persuasion Mrs. Jacobs consented to the proposed plan.

"I'll set the table first," she said, getting out a red and white cloth and throwing it over the imitation walnut board. "Since you'd really feel better if I let you, you go ahead and get supper. There's frankfurters and sauerkraut to be cooked with boiled potatoes.

"Then you might mix up a few quick biscuit. Don't put no butter into them, but just a little lard. There's apple butter here and we'll have that with the hot biscuits. I'll make the coffee when I come back. I guess I'll go up to my sister's for a while, for she ain't feelin' real well. It ain't often I get off for a whole afternoon."

FANNY PEELS THE POTATOES AND GETS SUPPER

Left alone, Fanny set herself to work to peel the potatoes and prepare the various articles for the simple repast. Then going to her trunk she took out a book, seated herself in the little parlor and tried to read. But her thoughts wandered. She was tired. She was also hungry. A strong sense of honesty forbade her eating any of the food that was in the Jacobs larder. At last she put on her hat and, hurrying out to the corner grocery, purchased a five-cent box of graham crackers. On her way back she bought an evening paper.

After she had eaten all of the crackers she felt less weary and read carefully all the advertisements in the columns of the newspaper, making a note of those which seemed most promising. This done, she glanced at the clock and was glad to see that the afternoon was almost gone. It was time to prepare supper. Anything was better than sitting about doing nothing.

The potatoes, sauerkraut and sausage were boiling merrily and the biscuits were in the oven when Fanny heard a step on the stairs. A moment later the door opened and Hermann Jacobs entered.

"Where's ma?" he asked, looking about in surprise.

The girl explained Mrs. Jacobs' absence. She was uncomfortable at finding herself alone with this repulsive young man. "Stella will be in now in a few minutes and so will your father, I suppose," she said tentatively.

"Not for a while yet," Hermann informed her. "I'm a little ahead of time tonight. I had an errand uptown and it was too late to go back to the shop when it was done, so I hurried a mile more because I knew you'd be here."

He went to the sink and washed his face vigorously, then combed his hair with the family comb in front of the small mirror hanging near the sink. Fanny averted her eyes. The sight made her feel sick. She had been used to simple but dainty appointments in her grandmother's home. His ablutions ended, Hermann went into his room and in a few minutes returned, gorgeous in a new necktie and redolent of cheap perfume. It was evident that he had made additions to his toilet with the desire of pleasing Fanny, for he smiled at her ingratiatingly.

HERMANN CAN'T SEE WHY SHE ISN'T CONTENTED

"Well," he said, "this is fine—havin' you here! I almost hope you ain't got no work yet."

"No," she acknowledged. "I am sorry to say that I haven't found anything yet."

"Why are you sorry?" he asked. "Ain't you happy here?"

"Your mother is very kind to me," the girl evaded, "but she will not let me pay board and I cannot impose upon her any longer."

The man laid his hand on her arm, and, as she had done last evening, she shuddered and shrank from him. "See here, Girlie," he protested, "don't be foolish. Ma's glad enough to have you, so just you stop talkin' about imposin' and so forth. Can't you see that I like you a lot and that I'd be real pleased at the chance of goin' with you steady, and——"

Fanny turned quickly toward the range. "I mustn't forget the biscuit," she exclaimed, opening the oven door to look at them. But they were not yet browned and she closed the door regretfully.

Hermann laughed. "You see you didn't stop me by that excuse," he said jocosely. Then, to her horror, he caught her by both shoulders and tried to make her meet his gaze. "Look at me, Girlie!" he urged.

"Don't!" she ejaculated sharply, wrenching herself away from his grasp.

Before he could protest the door opened and Mrs. Jacobs entered.

"Here I am at last!" that matron announced. "Well, Fanny, how did you get on?"

"Supper's ready," Fanny replied faintly. Then as Stella and her father arrived a moment later, the conversation became general and nobody noticed her silence and pallor.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

THE GIRL YOU LOVE

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

By a will of my grandfather I must marry in a short time. I am very friendly with two girls who, in regard to wealth, are decidedly opposite. I am in love with the poorer girl, but the constant urging of friends that I marry the other has made me undecided.

PERPLEXED.

MARRY the girl you love if you can win her. You scarcely deserve to, since you are so weak as to hesitate because your friends urge you to be "worldly wise" and sacrifice happiness for money.

A SPLENDID IDEA

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

Last Fall I broke my engagement because the young man did not seem to ever get money ahead. I loved him very much, and was willing to wait, but did not like to get myself talked about. However, I suffered much after I broke the engagement. We saw each other out in public, etc., and he called me up frequently. I went to California for three months and he wrote me several times. Now I have promised to marry him provided he made a good effort to save and not make me wait too long. He has asked if he could give me a certain amount each month to save and put in the bank in my name. Do you think it would be all right and proper for me to do this?

TRICKSY.

THIS is a very practical idea. You might open a joint account in both names, if you are publicly engaged. Then, perhaps, as you put in a bit, it will act as an added incentive for your fiance to make a great effort to save.

NO!

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

If two girls are walking along the street and see two young men who they would like to know and the young men speak to them, would it be all right for the girls to each introduce the other one, and the same with the young men?

DORA FARQUAR.

IT would be most improper. An introduction must come from some one who knows both parties to the introduction. What you suggest would merely be a cheap and degrading flirtation.

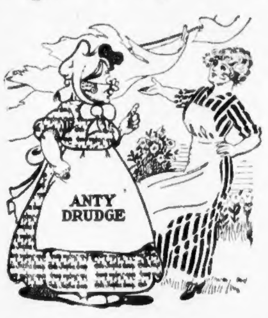
When you've proved there's an easy, right way to wash, you wouldn't wash the wrong, hard way, would you?

Well, there is an easy way—it's the Fels-Naptha way. And it's the right way, too, because clothes washed with Fels-Naptha Soap last longer and look better.

Why? Because with Fels-Naptha there's no hard rubbing to wear them out and no boiling to weaken the fiber. Then, too, they are sweet, clean and white.

Fels-Naptha takes less time and makes all kinds of work easier.

If your pans are greasy, Fels-Naptha will make them clean and bright in cool or lukewarm water.



This Is the Kind of Thing Anty Drudge Likes to Hear

Mrs. Careful—"Just see, Anty Drudge, the wind tore my sheet in two this morning. But I can't complain, because I haven't had to buy new sheets or cases for five years. They last so long, because I never have to boil or hard-rub them. I use Fels-Naptha Soap, you know."

Anty Drudge—"Well, you certainly have discovered the benefits of Fels-Naptha. There are lots of other women have, too. But I wish more knew about it."

Better buy Fels-Naptha by the carton or box.

CYRIL MAUDE WINS TRIUMPH IN "GRUMPY"

By FREDERICKS JOHNS.

Cyril Maude, the celebrated English actor, began an engagement at the Plymouth Theatre last night, in a comedy called "Grumpy." This little play was the hit of his New York visit last year and he played it most of the Summer in London.

"Grumpy" is the work of Horace Hodges and T. Wigney Percyval (isn't that an English name?). It is a detective drama of a very original type and it calls for character acting of the very highest order. Let me tell you what Cyril Maude must create for us. A very old man, more than eighty, senile, doddering, quarreling with his butler, snapping at everybody around him, but passionately fond of his granddaughter and his nephew. This old man has been the greatest criminal lawyer of his time, and the fires of his intelligence are still smouldering.

His nephew is robbed of a huge diamond while visiting Grumpy in his country home. No trace of the assailant can be found. The young man, who loves the granddaughter and whom the old man hopes will win her, is wounded and likely to be ruined. The ancient lawyer awakes. He puts his keen mind at work. He cross-examines everybody and gets upon the trail.

The thief despises him, even when the old man locates him in London, and stupidly falls into a trap laid for him by Grumpy. The clew which the legal mind builds his case upon is a flower with a woman's hair twined around it and, slender as is the thread, it holds. The diamond is recovered, the nephew saved, the thief is punished and the old man slumps again into his senility.

It is a great part for a great actor, and Cyril Maude plays it marvelously. The wonderful character of Grumpy is unfolded in a skillful manner. Maude sinks his identity most completely. "Grumpy" is not a great play, but Grumpy himself is a character which stands out more than anything I have seen for some time.

In Mr. Maude's capable company are Elsie Mackay, Leslie Buswell, John Harwood, Alexander Onslow, Roland Buckstone, James Dale, Mabel Hicks and Maud Andrews.

Plays That Remain.

WILBUR—William Hodge in "The Road to Happiness" entered upon the tenth week of his engagement at the Wilbur last night with a splendid performance before a very large audience. There seems to be no end to the people who want to see Hodge, and the prospects are he will remain for many weeks more.

HOLLIS—Lydia Lopokova, the newest and sweetest of the theatrical stars, in her pretty little play, "The Young Idea," began the second week of her engagement at the Hollis last night. The piece makes a big hit with everybody and the audiences are nightly increasing in size.

MAJESTIC—"Today," with Edmund Breese, Ethel Valentine and a great cast, begins its last week at the Majestic with a big audience. The play is compelled by its other bookings to leave Boston, so there is little more time to see it.

CORT—The tenth week of "Peg o' My Heart" began at the Cort Theatre last night before a bigger audience than ever. The popularity of "Peg" shows no diminution and Florence Martin and the remainder of the big cast are likely to be with us for many weeks more.

TREMONT—"Potash and Perlmutter" began the last two weeks of its engagement at the Tremont Theatre last night. The piece is as popular as ever, but other engagements make it imperative that it depart.

Gaiety.

Sam Howe and his new "Lovemakers" were the attraction at the Gaiety last night, and they were offering a brilliant bit of burlesque entitled "In Russia." If the Czar ever saw what they do to Russia he would send Sam and his troupe to Siberia, but as he is busy we have a chance to sit back and laugh ourselves to death. There is a big bunch of pretty girls, funny comedians and fine costumes. Sam Howe himself is there as usual. A bully good show.

Grand Opera.

The City Sports burlesque company, headed by popular Harry Koler, was burlesque jollity. Abe Leavitt is another funmaker and Arthur Young as seen in a merry festival replete with the "Hobo" won favor. June Mills is a clever comedienne who has made a decided success in her chosen sphere, and Fanny Vedder and Rose Ford are well-known burlesque artists.

Eltinge Reviewed Tomorrow.

Julian Eltinge opened at the Colonial last night in his latest success, "The Crinoline Girl." The star is a great local favorite and the theatre was thronged. The piece is bright and highly entertaining. It will be reviewed tonight in detail by Frederick Johns.

Marcus Leow's Globe.

The pretentious musical comedy production, "On the Riviera," is the headliner the first three days of the coming week. This is the classiest and most expensive musical production ever shown in the Globe. The favorite character singer, Edith Clifford, with a number of new songs, is an interesting feature. Charles Ledegar, the Flying Dutchman comedian on a bounding rope; Mack and Pingree, comedians and singers, and others are on the bill.

KAISER'S LION GETS FIRST AID; HARVARD DEAN RAPS 'ROWDIES'

Harvard's "Lion of Brunswick," the personal gift to the university of Kaiser Wilhelm and which was twice bombarded by bad eggs, has been given a good bath.

Somebody, when the smell of battle had cleared away, went out with mop and hot water and wiped away the yellow smears on the statue's flanks.

Dean Byron S. Hurlbut of Harvard today blamed local rowdies and not students for the bombarding with eggs of the Brunswick lion, which stands outside the Germanic Museum, near Quincy street and Broadway, Cambridge.

This gift from German royalty was pelted during the night with decayed eggs, tomatoes and incandescent bulbs, and was daubed with red paint on the side of the ten-foot pedestal bearing the inscription in German.

The inscription, which is repeated in English on the opposite side of the pedestal, reads:

"The Duchy of Brunswick, under the regency of Duke John Albert of Mecklenburg, dedicates to the Germanic Museum in Cambridge this replica of the bronze lion erected in the Twelfth Century in Castle Square in Brunswick by Duke Henry the Lion."

"This is something for police investigation," said Dean Hurlbut. "It has nothing to do with the institution. It was obviously committed by outside rowdies, although the custom has been to saddle malefactions on the student body. The students are made scapegoats too often for exhibitions of local rowdyism."

Eugene Marum, New Dancer, Wins Favor at Opera House

Much interest was shown at the Boston Opera House last night in the graceful and rhythmical dancing of Eugene Marum, who is making his first Boston appearance.

He is a native of Chicago, where he was one of society's favorite performers. His former appearances, with a few exceptions, have been confined to private drawing room entertainments.

During this week he is seen in two numbers, "The Dance of Pierrot" and "The Dance of the Young Arab," two unique dances which require no small amount of agility. His work won the favor of the audience.

An arrangement of the second act of the opera "Martha," including the "Good Night" quartet and "The Last Rose of Summer," was successfully produced by the operatic stock company.

The motion pictures of Shakespeare's drama "Julius Caesar," has started its second week's run.

Loew's St. James.

"Fifteen Sons of the Desert," sensational Arabian and Bedouin acrobats and tumblers, head the bill. The laugh feature is furnished by Charles Deland, Mary Carr and company in a farce comedy playlet, "Back to Buffalo." Another headliner is the three Keltons, one of vaudeville's best musical productions. Clayton and Lenny, in "The Chappy and His English Friend," and other acts complete the bill.

Marcus Leow's Orpheum.

The Sam Mann players, presenting the ever popular laugh maker, "The New Leader," a glimpse behind the scenes in vaudeville. Phillip DeVoe, the character comedian, is playing the role of the new leader. The three Bennett sisters, the original athletic girls. Hallen and Hayes are a couple of clever young chaps, presenting "Broadway and Piccadilly." Von Cello is an unusual foot juggler.

Bowdoin Square.

At the Bowdoin Square Theatre this week is seen the famous moving picture, "The Sea Wolf," Jack London's masterpiece. This is displayed in seven reels. In the vaudeville portion of the bill there will be a number of feature acts.

Casino.

In the production of the 1914 edition of the "Star and Garter" show the very acme of burlesque musical comedy has been realized. The able cast headed by Jack Conway and Miss "Billie" Hill is the best yet.

Exeter Street.

Revival of Opera at Boston Theatre Has Been Postponed

The revival of grand opera in English at the Boston Theatre, set for last night, was postponed on the advice of Mayor Curley after an appeal for $5,000 with which to meet existing indebtedness did not bring forth the required amount.

The Mayor said one Boston City Club member had contributed $1,700, and this brought out a subscription of $500 from William F. Fitzgerald. Mr. Curley was forced to advise the audience to apply at the box office for its money.

A delegate from the Stage Workers' Union, Ramon Blanchart of the Boston Opera House, and Miss Kathryn Lynbrook, prima donna, expressed their willingness to continue with their duties.

Scollay Square Olympia.

The following all-star vaudeville features are on the bill at the Scollay Square Olympia Theatre: Maglin, Eddy and Roy, acrobatic pantomimists; Carroll sisters, singing and dancing; Olympia Stock Company (Walter, Fowler and Barrett), in the comedy dramatic one-act playlet, "The Man Who Slipped It to Sweeney"; Duquesne comedy four, comedians, and others. Tuesday and Wednesday the great five reel photoplay, "The Threads of Destiny," featuring Evelyn Nesbit Thaw in the leading role.

Howard Athenaeum.

At the Howard are May Ward's Dresden Dolls. With this company are a number of clever comedians. The management puts forth a continuous show of exceptional worth and will introduce Dena Cooper and company in the dramatic playlet, "The Confession;" Blanch Baird, the tailor-made girl; Alf. Holt, mimic; Kinsners, equilibrists; Stevenson and Nugent, clever comedians; Anita, gypsy violinist; Sam Barber, the dancing king.

New Modern.

James A. Herne's masterpiece, "Shore Acres," is being presented in five parts. The supporting cast is a strong one and includes Charles A. Stevenson, William Riley Hatch, Violet Horner, Conway Tearle, E. J. Connelly, Harry Knowles and Gladys Fairbanks.

Shubert.

"The Passing Show of 1914" began its third week at the Shubert last night. The audience was almost capacity and the popularity of the piece does not seem to wane. The immensity of the scenes, the pretty girls and the humor of George Munroe, Harry Fisher and the rest is irresistible.

CASCARETS FOR COSTIVE BOWELS, SOUR STOMACH, COLD OR HEADACHE

That awful sourness, belching of acid and foul gases; that pain in the pit of the stomach, the heartburn, nervousness, nausea, bloating after eating, feeling of fullness, dizziness and sick headache, means your stomach is sour—your liver is torpid—your bowels constipated. It isn't your stomach's fault—it isn't indigestion—it's biliousness and constipation. Try Cascarets; they sweeten the stomach, remove the sour, fermenting food and foul gases; take bile from the liver and carry off the constipated waste matter from the bowels. Then your stomach trouble, headache, bad cold and all such misery ends.

EVA TANGUAY SCORES AGAIN AT KEITH'S

Cyclonic Eva Tanguay came back to Keith's yesterday and was welcomed by an enthusiastic house full of friends. She's the same busy Eva and the unknown genius who writes her songs has been generous in his supply of all new things for Eva to sing.

Now, when one has said that Eva is back and that she is just as Tanguay as ever the whole truth has not been told by any means. For she can sing distinctly and her songs are bright and interesting in themselves. They are all about herself—about how folks say she is crazy, about her funny clothes and harum-scarum tobasco ways and how she should bibble.

And her new clothes! Well, Eva never did leave anything to the imagination and she disappoints no one, but her new clothes out-Eva even Eva with their ribbons and funny freaks and fol-de-rols. She sang an encore song about peace that shows what everyone knew—that she is a very intelligent little Eva.

The bill is up to the high Keith standard, a little of everything and plenty of comedy. Nether and Kappell dance the modern dances on roller skates; the Misses Campbell have a dainty musical act—piano, banjo and singing. Willie Weston, a vaudeville favorite, sings some new songs, one about the war being especially good. Emmet Devoy and company have a sketch which gives an absolutely new turn to the stage mother-in-law.

And now for Joe Cook with his lot of original foolishness in which he gives an entire fake vaudeville show all by himself—music, juggling, dancing, orchestra, with a lot of special futuristic scenery. Joe deserves a paragraph all by himself and he will get it right here.

Bert Levy used to be a newspaper artist until he invented his own machine for entertaining vaudeville audiences with his drawings on a large screen.

For "sight" acts there are the Moary sisters on the rings and Sutton, McIntyre and Sutton, who have something new in a "rube" acrobatic act. The war pictures are especially good.

National Theatre.

Edward Peple's famous war play, "The Littlest Rebel," with E. K. Lincoln as "Herbert Carey," and Mimi Yvonne in the role of "Virgie," the little rebel, is at the National Theatre for a positively limited engagement of one week only. "The Littlest Rebel" is one of the greatest war dramas ever written. Preceding "The Littlest Rebel" is shown for the first time in Boston, Mary Pickford in her very newest photoplay. An orchestra plays the appropriate music of the period, including old Southern airs.

Coming Events.

Coming to the Majestic Theatre November 16 is Sam Bernard in his latest success, "The Belle of Bond Street," which is an up-to-date version of his earlier success, "The Girl from Kay's." In its new dress the book is by Owen Hall and Harold Atteridge, its lyrics by Adrian Ross and Claude Aveling, and its music by Ivan Caryll and Lionel Monckton.

Blood Destruction Stopped and Rebuilt

Worries Overcome, Evidence Brushed Away. The Skin Cleared.

S. S. S. the famous blood purifier, is man's architect. It contemplates the damage done and repairs the damage. It also looks after the possible damage and corrects all tendency to blood eruptions, decay of bones, clogging of joints and any and all of those myriad of destructive effects such as rheumatism, catarrh, swollen glands, sore throat, bronchial affections and the host of infirmities so well known as being caused by impure blood. And now, why should S. S. S. do all this? Simply because it is Nature's antidote, a remedy of searching influence. It contains a powerful, natural ingredient, that sweeps its way to the skin. And in doing this it not only annihilates destructive germs but causes them to be so converted that they are easily and harmlessly voided, expelled or destroyed and then driven out through the natural outlets of the body. Thus let S. S. S. be your safeguard in all blood troubles no matter what they are. It won't fail you. Get a bottle today of any druggist but refuse any and all substitutes.

MOTOR NOTES

By J. C. KERRISON.

The three 1915 Cole models now on an educational run throughout the State finished their second week's running Saturday night. Lowell, Leominster, Fitchburg, Athol, Gardner, Worcester, Milford, Southbridge, Taunton, New Bedford and Fall River were visited and the large crowds that received the crew in the above named cities proved what lively interest the public showed in the standardized car.

The second week proved an even greater success than the opening one and a number of new agents were appointed and eight more orders were booked. Frank A. McClaskey who is with the tour as crew manager, has made things lively throughout the trip.

The run will be continued this week and a new route has been picked out that will cover a new list of cities.

The directors of the Goodyear recently met and declared the regular annual dividend of 12 per cent. on common stock. Statements were made by officials showing that the company in every way now occupies the strongest position in all its history.

An interesting point brought out was that each of the 500 Goodyear salesmen sells enough goods to keep fifteen men on the payroll at Akron.

Thin People Can Increase Weight

Thin men and women who would like to increase their weight with 10 or 15 pounds of healthy "stay there" fat should try eating a little Sargol with their meals for a while and note results. Here is a good test worth trying. First weigh yourself and measure yourself. Then take Sargol—one tablet with every meal—for two weeks. Then weigh and measure again. It isn't a question of how you look or feel or what your friends say and think. The scales and the tape measure will tell their own story, and most any thin man or woman can easily add from five to eight pounds in the first fourteen days by following this simple direction. And best of all, the new flesh stays put.

Sargol does not of itself make fat, but mixing with your food, it turns the fats, sugars and starches of what you have eaten, into rich, ripe fat producing nourishment for the tissues and blood—prepares it in an easily assimilated form which the blood can readily accept. All this nourishment now passes from your body as waste. But Sargol stops the waste and does it quickly and makes the fat producing contents of the very same meals you are eating now develop pounds and pounds of healthy flesh between your skin and bones. Sargol is safe, pleasant, efficient and inexpensive. Leading druggists in Boston and vicinity sell it in large boxes—forty tablets to a package—on a guarantee of weight increase or money back.

The Nation's Imperative Duty Is to Build Up the Navy

The news from Washington that the Navy Department has completed plans and will presently invite bids for a new type of submarine, twice the size of any now in existence, with a speed of twenty-one knots and a cruising radius of about three thousand five hundred miles, is both interesting and important.

These new craft are to be built under the Naval Appropriation bill passed by the present Congress. Though almost revolutionary in design, it cannot be said that in authorizing them Congress was in any way stimulated by the achievements of the submarines in the present war, because the bill was passed before the death-dealing Weddinger, with his prosaically-named U-9, began his career of calamity for the British navy.

Indeed, the development of this new type of submersible ship does not in any way indicate that the authorities of our navy have precipitately decided, in face of the record of the German submarines, that the battleship foundation for the navy must go. No well-equipped observer of naval strategy is ready for that decision yet. Perhaps the naval actions of the European war may relegate dreadnoughts to the scrap heap, but it is too early yet to forecast that result.

In any event, the chief importance about this bit of naval news is the assurance it gives to the country that at least something is being done to keep our navy up with the development of other fighting forces, and adequate to the needs of the country.

The Administration professes itself entirely satisfied with the results of the recent election. If that be true it need not bother further with politics for a year at least to come. The measures which have been labelled "the new freedom" and "the emancipation of business" have been enacted. The Administration need waste no time in boasting over them. The country will put them to the test.

The way, therefore, is clear for the Administration and the Congress it controls to give effect to this pledge of the Baltimore platform:

> "The party that proclaimed and has always enforced the Monroe Doctrine and was sponsor for the new navy will continue faithfully to observe the Constitutional requirements to provide and maintain AN ADEQUATE AND WELL-PROPORTIONED NAVY, SUFFICIENT TO DEFEND AMERICAN POLICIES, PROTECT OUR CITIZENS AND UPHOLD THE HONOR AND DIGNITY OF THE NATION."

Of course, we have not that kind of a navy now. Equally, of course, the present Administration during its two years in office has done nothing to fulfil the pledge of the platform makers.

The Secretary of the Navy has been exceedingly active in his efforts to make the navy a sort of school for technical education. He successfully banished from the wardrooms all light wine and beer. He was balked only of his design to "democratize" the service by having enlisted men and officers mess together on occasion by the hint that there were many colored seamen in the service. North Carolina Democracy balked at that. But with all his restless activity the Secretary of the Navy left it to a Republican Congressman—Mr. Gardner, of Massachusetts—to tell such truths about the navy as that it lacks more than 40,000 men of the number needed to man its ships, and that in an era of torpedo warfare we have but ONE TORPEDO TO EACH GUN!

IT TAKES MONTHS TO ENLIST MEN AND MAKE MAN-O'-WAR'S MEN OUT OF THEM. IT TAKES A YEAR TO BUILD A TORPEDO.

The savagery of the war now raging in Europe, the cruel sorrow and suffering it inflicts on humanity, the irreparable loss it has imposed upon whole communities, are enough to horrify the world.

But however shocked our own people may be, however greatly our hatred of war may be enhanced by the dreadful spectacle, does not affect the possibility of our being next to suffer in a like way.

It is the business—the immediate, solemn, imperative duty—of the Administration to take up at once the question of the unpreparedness of our navy, and to lay before Congress, when it meets in December, a full programme for the development and perfection of our fighting force on the ocean.

Common sense demands it. Loyalty to the Baltimore platform compels it. The instinct for self-preservation of the Administration officials should insist upon it. And, above all, national safety and national dignity make such action for the strengthening of the navy imperative and vital.

Wedded to a Red Flower Vase

A Matrimonial Idea of the Chinese Which Might Solve a Good Many Difficulties for Our Own Civilization

By DOROTHY DIX

IN China, whose civilization was old before ours began, and which is therefore correspondingly advanced in many particulars, they have solved one phase of the matrimonial problem.

According to a recent newspaper dispatch, a young Chinese lady, belonging to one of the most aristocratic families, has just been married to a red flower vase—the vase being a substitute for the young man to whom she was betrothed and who died just before the wedding. The prospective bride wished to enjoy the dignities and freedom that belonged to a matron, and that are denied to a maid, but her heart was in the grave with her dead lover, and she couldn't bear to think of marrying another man, so the red flower vase was substituted for the bridegroom and the marriage celebrated with all due pomp and ceremony.

For many years America has been sending money and missionaries without stint to convert what we call, in our fatuous folly, the "heathen Chinee." It is now China's turn to make a courteous missionary retort and put us under eternal obligation by introducing in America the pleasing custom of marrying a woman to an inanimate object when no animate object applies for the job.

In this country there are not enough men to go around, even if all would wed, and every year piles up the deficit in the matrimonial bureau. What should be done about the surplus woman problem has been a question that seemed unanswerable until the acute Chinese came along with a suggestion so simple and so direct that it leaves us wondering we didn't guess the answer to the conundrum long ago. Just popularize the idea of marrying a flower vase, and you have done away, once and for all, with old maids, girl bachelors, and all the disadvantages of spinsterhood.

A far greater number of women marry just for the sake of being married than we ever suspect. They are not lovers at heart. They are not irresistibly drawn to particular men. Their instincts are for celibacy, and left to themselves they would far rather be free than burdened with the cares and responsibilities of husbands and children.

But they want to write "Mrs." instead of "Miss" before their names. They want the status of the married woman. Above all, they want the liberty of the married woman, for we cling to the absurd tradition that a single woman, though she be ninety, is still a debutante, and that she must be chaperoned, and that it is indelicate for her to hear or speak of any topic that isn't dressed up in white muslin and girdled with a blue sash.

Also, that the single woman must, perforce, live with her friends or her family, no matter how much she would like to set up an establishment of her own.

To this large set of single women, rich old maids, and business women earning good salaries, a red flower vase husband would fill a matrimonial ideal, and they would espouse it with an enthusiasm that no mere man ever evokes.

In reality, the red flower vase husband is not as startling an innovation as it seems. Many a woman has discovered, to her sorrow, that she has married a whiskey bottle instead of a man, and she would be glad enough to trade him off for a red flower vase if she could.

There are men so full of vanity and conceit and self-importance that their wives had just as well have united themselves to a balloon or any other sort of gas bag. There are husbands who are so silent in their own homes that a store dummy could be substituted for them without their wives ever finding out the difference, and there are other women who believed that they were marrying tender Romeos who ascertained after marriage that they tied up with surly bears that growl whenever you speak to them.

There are husbands in plenty who are so sour and tart that their wives would find a vinegar jug a sweet companion beside them. There are other men so immersed in their business and professions that their wives would have had just as much sympathy and companionship if they had married a ledger, or a law book, which they could have shut up when it made them tired.

Also, there are men who wouldn't find marrying a red flower vase instead of a wife such a bad idea, for there are men who have found out after marriage that instead of a living, loving human woman they have led nothing but a fashion plate to the altar. There are other men who have ascertained to their sorrow that they married talking machines that never run down and that they can't shut off, and still other men are married to weeping women who are nothing but hydrants, with the tap always turned on.

Of course, there are some disadvantages in having a flower vase spouse. As a husband he might go broke, or get full, like a human husband. As a wife she would never be anything but a parlor ornament; but the advantages outweigh the disadvantages, and the Chinese plan is earnestly recommended to those sociologists who are disturbed over our diminishing matrimonial rate.

As a happy expedient for the superfluous woman, and the old bachelor who would like to be free though married, the red flower vase substitute for a husband or wife takes the wedding cake.
